Lindbergh Takes "Spot" From Royalty

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS.) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took precedence over royalty when he attended a pre-wedding luncheon at the Army and Navy Club in honor of Estelle Manville and Count Folke Bernadotte, cousin of the King of Sweden, who are to be married at Pleasantville, N. Y., today.

The famous flier was seated beside Prince Gustavus Adolphus, heir presumptive to the Swedish throne, and Prince Sigvard.

JOSEPH MEDILL PATTERSON writes an article headed "It's Tough to Be Fifty," because at that age he discovers that he can't fly an airplane as well as Lindbergh can.

The business of men past 50 is to encourage others to fly, going along as passengers, if they choose.

Patterson flew in 1910 at Dayton, sitting on the lower wing of a biplane with his feet braced against two bars. That must have been enough excitement, but evidently it was not.

RAIN FAVORS ARMY AGAINST STANFORD; 80,000 CROWD

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Having been duly warned by the depressing circumstances surrounding the defeat of N. Y. U. by the Oregon Aggies two days ago, this man's town was all a-twitter with mortal dread today as it sent the second prospective champion of the East into action against a non-championship team from the west coast.

The occasion was the great intersectional meeting of the year, involving the Army and Stanford, and a turn-away crowd of 80,000 was going out there imbued with the notion that it was about to witness the game of a lifetime.

Rain, which fell throughout yesterday and on into the night, may yet have its place in influencing the verdict. Stanford, understood to feature passing plays with a sweeping running attack, a la Warner, is the confirmed "dry" of the gridiron. It figures it must have a fast field for the purposes of its attack, and the Yankee management has done its part by keeping the playing inclosure covered.

That fact didn't exactly enrage the Army, either. For Cagle would rather daily with asphalt than chicken gumbo. As a team, however, it was thought that its close-order attack might function in the wet much more effectively than the plays that Warner is supposed to rely on.

The Army, beaten only by Notre Dame in a melodramatic finish, had its Cagles, its Murrels, its Spragues and its Perrys keyed up to the idea that only victory in this game would rehabilitate Eastern prestige, somewhat depreciated by the events of Thursday.

Psychologicall, the best thing that could have happened to Army football was the defeat of N. Y. U. by this team that supposedly had come on from Oregon just for the

VISITS

SUZANNE LENGLEN

SUZANNE HERE—BUT WHY?

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—An unheralded visit to the United States by Suzanne Lenglen, tennis marvel of France, provided material for a mystery today.

With her mother and a young American in a blue beret, she landed incognito last night from a trans-Atlantic liner, but why she came or whence she went could not be learned. In fact, her mother insisted Suzanne wasn't even here.

"She is in France," said Lenglen mere in French as she sat atop 21 pieces of luggage waiting for the customs inspection, "she did not come on the steamer."

"No speak English," said the young man in the beret in the best California accent.

MYSTERY OF SUZANNE

Those who know a temperamental French tennis star when they see one, however, insist that Mlle. Lenglen was aboard the Conte Biancamano when the liner docked and that she left immediately for parts unknown.

The young man, it was discovered, was Thaddeus Winters, of Pasadena, Cal., and there are reports that the home of Mrs. T. A. Winters in Pasadena is Suzanne's ultimate destination. She visited California on her professional tour of this country in 1926. Her baggage was consigned to the Savoy Plaza, but the conspiracy of silence held sway there too, and if she was there she kept to her room.

Neither Suzanne's name nor her mother's was on the passenger list of the Italian liner and the line's officers refused to discuss the matter.

MARRIAGE RUMORS

The relations of Winters with the Lenglens was not disclosed. Miss Lenglen's name has been linked in marriage gossip with that of Baldwin Baldwin, grandson of E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, of California, and some observers here believed Winters might have been acting for his brother Californian.

Suzanne and Baldwin were much together on the continent and neither has ever denied a sentimental attachment. The only comment Suzanne would make on the marriage rumors this fall was that "if I should ever contemplate such a step the statement will be given to the newspapers by my family in the usual fashion."

"NOW WE CAN REST," SAY SLAYERS AFTER WITCHCRAFT FIGHT

YORK, Pa., Dec. 1.—"We did not intend to kill Rehmeyer, but now we are glad he is dead, for the spell has been broken and now we can rest."

This in substance is the philosophy of John Blymyer and John Curry, two of the three who last Tuesday killed Nelson D. Rehmeyer in an effort to get a lock of his hair, which they intended to bury under eight feet of ground to break a spell they believed the North Hopewell farmer had cast over them.

Wilbert G. Hess, whose family was led to believe that Blymyer was a witch or pow-wow doctor, seems to be the only one of the trio who worries about the killing.

Investigation into the tragedy has revealed that several of the so-called pow-wow doctors in York County and at least one of them in Lancaster County are remotely or directly connected with the killers and had much to do with the mental state of the three that led them to the crime.

Police said the practice of "witchcraft" was common in this section, many of the inhabitants believing firmly in the power of certain persons to "helex" others, as they commonly say.

There are stories of many persons paying large sums of money to witch doctors to break the spells that have been cast, and on several occasions farmers have been known to lose their property in attempting to have the spells broken. Police said that so far they had been powerless to break up the secret practice of the "black art."

MORAN CONSPIRACY CHARGES DISMISSED

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh's prosecution of Patrick E. (Happy) Moran, former city detective, on a conspiracy charge, collapsed in Central Police Court today. Neither Walsh nor anybody else who knew anything of the charge was present to testify against Moran.

Magistrate John J. Orie discharged him.

Walsh ordered Moran arrested five weeks ago after revelation in Criminal Court that an extortion confession had been stolen from detective headquarters.

The arrest indicated Walsh connected Moran with the disappearance.

It was reported $2,000 had been

KING'S FEVER RISES, FEARS AGAIN GROW

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The official bulletin on King George's condition this morning said there had been a slight rise in his temperature since yesterday.

The bulletin, signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, of Penn, said:

"In spite of his majesty having passed a fair night, there has been a slight rise in temperature since yesterday. The general condition remains unchanged."

The nation had been hoping that His Majesty would make a steady, although necessarily slow, progress toward recovery. The knowledge that his fever was higher, if only slightly, gave a tinge of uneasiness to public feeling.

It was indicated after this morning's bulletin that its less satisfactory tone was not entirely unexpected by the King's doctors. At the palace it was authoritatively stated that the King's condition bore out the statement in yesterday's bulletin that the possibility of exacerbation was not yet over. So long as this exists, the physicians are prepared for a little ebb and flow in the illness.

TROJANS BATTLE IRISH

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Knute Rockne and his Ramblers of Notre Dame are ready to again try conclusions with Howard Jones' University of Southern California Trojans here today, and will enter the contest against the Pacific Coast champions with a record of two victories and no defeats in the two-year duel with the Westerners.

Notre Dame, battered and cuffed about by Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Carnegie, but with triumphs over the Navy and the Army, is an even choice to repeat its 1927 and 1926 triumph over U. S. C. In 1926, the Irish came from behind to win a thrilling 13-12 victory, and last year, before a crowd of 117,000 spectators at Soldier's Field in Chicago, Notre Dame won a 7-6 duel.

OUTSTANDING DUEL I

The contest is one of the two leading intersectional tidbits of the day, rivalling in importance and color the Stanford-Army classic in New York.

Southern California's attack is built around the scintillating Don Williams, who has taken the place of Morley Drury, star of the '27 Trojan eleven. Williams, known as the Trojan Thunderbolt, had ripped and crashed his way to stardom in a series of thrilling episodes in the Coast Conference this fall.

Johnny Niemiec, backfield star of the Ramblers, will be able to start today's contest, despite an injured neck. His presence in the lineup adds a decided punch to the Irish attack.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—"South America, in my opinion, offers at present the broadest and biggest opportunities for the expansion of America's overseas automobile business.

"President-elect Hoover, in visiting the important points in this market of tremendous possibilities, is making an outstanding contribution in the further development of America's foreign trade. The influence of his good-will journey will reach far beyond the particular countries he will visit."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, the biggest industrial organization in the world, made these statements in an exclusive interview with the writer today. He recently returned from a five weeks' business survey in Europe.

PITT FRESHIES FACE COURT AFTER FIGHT

Three University of Pittsburgh freshmen, one president of his class, came before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today on disorderly conduct charges. They were accused of having broken a large plate glass window, valued at $280, in the Bellefield garage, 160 North Craig street.

The boys, who were held over until a settlement for the damage can be reached, are Stanley Fisher, 21, president of Pitt's freshman class and a member of the freshman football team; Francis Robens, 20, member of the cross-country track team, and Isadore Cass, 20. All the boys gave their address as 315 North Craig street.

The window was broken, it was testified, during a fight with a Negro attendant at the garage, which resulted when he interferred in an argument the boys had with another Negro, driver of an incoming machine. The machine, it was said, almost ran into the boys as they were crossing the garage driveway

HE would be interested in the latest, biggest locomotive, made for the Northern Pacific Railroad by the American Locomotive Company.

It will be powerful enough to pull a loaded freight train two miles long on a level track. The engine and tender, 175 feet long, will weigh 1,000,000 pounds, burn in one hour enough coal to warm two average houses all winter and use in one hour as much water as 100 families use in a day.

No wonder industrial, railroad and other stocks go up, with such efficiency.

This really is no country to sell short.

THE REV. MACLEOD, of a New York Fifth avenue church, rebukes Herbert Hoover for traveling on a warship and says: "A Quaker on a dreadnaught is like a cannon in a parlor."

THAT'S the point, Herbert Hoover IS like a cannon in a parlor. He has no little parlor ways about him. And in his work the only thing he cares about is a dreadnaught.

AS guest on Thanksgiving Day of the American Society in London, Premier Baldwin told a story and gave a piece of advice important to American statesmen and American bankers.

He told Franklin's story of two Quakers at a revival meeting. One, deeply moved, asked the other to lend him money for the collection. The other replied, "Friend, at any other time, but not now, for thou seemest not to be in thy right mind."

BALDWIN says that's what America should reply to any European country trying to borrow money for war purposes. The trouble is that our financiers are not so particular, if the rakeoff is big enough.

"LEARNED and devout scholars" of the Church of England in a commentary on the Holy Scripture class Jonah and the whale, Noah's ark, Belshazzar's feast and the Tower of Babel as "myths without historical foundation and impossible to believe."

IN battleship building competition, first they made a gun that would penetrate any armor, then armor that no gun could penetrate, and so it went.

Now France is amazed to hear that Germany has a machine of which the waves can stop the motors of an airplane. The next invention will be an airplane that can stop the waves of that machine, and so on. The best plan for us is to have airplanes and see what happens.

IF Germany really had such a machine and could keep it secret, she could dictate her will to the world. Germans would be able to destroy other cities, and no airplane could hurt their cities.

But things do not happen in that sudden way.

F. TRUBEE DAVISON, assistant secretary of war for aeronautics, wisely urges enactment of the Furlow bill to hasten promotion for fliers.

It is hard enough now to keep good men in the flying service, because of slow promotion, and competition of private flying concerns.

Promotion for Army and Navy fliers should be hastened and pay increased.

VIOLENT SCENES MARK SLAVONIC ANNIVERSARY

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—One person was killed and a policeman seriously injured today during violent scenes at Zagreb, which occurred during the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the union of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. While official representatives were proceeding to a church to celebrate the union, three huge flags were displayed on the cathedral. Police forcibly entered the edifice and tore down the flags. This act was followed by violent scenes.

The people of Zagreb in general refused to celebrate the holiday because of the murder of Croatian leaders in the Parliament at Belgrade last June. Papers there barely mentioned the fact that today was the tenth anniversary of the union.

In Belgrade, however, the streets were bedecked with flags and crowded with happy throngs celebrating the anniversary. Great processions of Sokols (athletic organizations), scouts and other Nationalist organization passed through the streets to attend a service of thanksgiving which was held in the Cathedral.

All Belgrade papers published special editions giving the history of the union and an account of the progress made during the last 10 years.

MORAN CHARGES DISMISSED

paid somebody to take the confession from the detective files.

Today was the fifth time Moran had been arraigned for hearing. On the four previous occasions Walsh didn't appear to explain his charge, and apparently he hadn't instructed any of his subordinates to represent him.

The only witness at today's hearing was City Detective John Crouse, who testified only that, at the order of Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd, he had served the warrant on Moran.

Magistrate Orie then granted a motion by Moran's attorney, Benjamin Lencher, that Moran be discharged.

WITNESSES SERVING TIME

After the hearing Inspector Boyd was asked why witnesses had not appeared to testify against Moran. Boyd explained that Justice of the Peace C. J. Ranshaw and the four constables who might have testified were all serving extortion sentences in the Western Penitentiary. Boyd, asked why he had not obtained a court order to bring in the witnesses, said he had acted only in so far as instructed by Walsh.

Moran was discharged from the city detective force three months ago.

When he was arrested five weeks ago he said: "Walsh fired me. He crucified me. He fired me because in my investigations I got too close to home for him."

RAIN FAVORS ARMY IN BIG GAME

ride. If the Army blows this one now, it will do it with its eyes open and its mouth shut.

STANFORD GOOD

Stanford, potentially a great team but never actually so this year, was here to make the supreme bid, the effort of its young life, to win a football game from one of the East's favorites with most of the East looking on. Eastern teams have been badly beaten by the coast, thereby giving the loser lots of lingual exercise in a big, broad way about climatic changes and the overland trip.

This time Stanford is taking the rap in question, just as did the Oregon Aggies earlier in the week, and if the Cardinal shakes it off to come on and win, there will be nothing for it but to admit that possibly better football may have something to do with it.

Stanford and Glenn Warner! They always have been capable of a great single-game effort any time and this looks like the moment. Psychology, the alleged arbiter of football fortunes, has distributed its largess impartially. Stanford knows that it has taken the worst of it in making the trans-continental jump. The Army knows that it is taking on one of the best teams of the year. It ought to be a game for your hangnails.

It can't miss, as a matter of fact, featuring as it does Warner's return to the land of his fathers, the first visit of a California team to New York and a chance to see Cagle make his final bid for the all-America team. The speculators really think they have something this time and will not let you have a choice seat right behind the goal posts for important money, just because they know you.

WILL CAGLE ROAM?

As in all other Army games the question today is how far Cagle will roam, if at all. Warner always was quite a fellow for figuring a means of stopping any single performer. This time, if he stops one, he will stop eleven.

Ecuadorean soil for the first time since leaving San Pedro, Cal.

There will be a state banquet at Guayaquil this evening for the distinguished visitor following ceremonies of official greeting when Mr. Hoover meets President Isidro Ayora of Ecuador and members of his cabinet. Mrs. Hoover, Henry P. Fletcher and other members of the Hoover party will be present at the state dinner.

The party will leave Guayaquil tomorrow afternoon for the Maryland and the warship will then continue its trip down the South American coast.

An elaborate program of entertainment was provided at Guayaquil for Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, including a sightseeing tour of the city and suburbs.

The fun which pervaded the Maryland all day yesterday while the King Neptune ceremonies were in progress gave way today to the serious business of spreading amity and good will.

SPEAKS TONIGHT

Mr Hoover's address this evening—his first on South American soil—was expected to convey the keynote of his general greetings to the South American republics.

The President-elect is highly gratified over the extremely cordial tone of the messages he has received from the South American capitals he will visit and believes that he will return home leaving the ties of international friendship stronger than ever.

During his spare moments on shipboard Mr. Hoover has been reading books upon South American topics and is better versed to observe the problems of the southern republics than he was a fortnight ago. He has also held a number of consultations with Henry P. Fletcher, an authority on Latin American affairs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Al Smith Democratic Club of Washington, like John Paul Jones, has "just begun to fight."

The group has passed a resolution to "maintain its origin as an active, energetic body to foster and animate a nation-wide movement to bring about the nomination and election of Alfred E. Smith in 1932."

A preamble to the resolution extols the defeated Democratic standard bearer and denounces the activities of the klan and Anti-Saloon League.

WELFARE CONTRIBUTORS URGED TO MAIL CHECKS

Determined to carry out their resolve to raise $100,000 before Monday night, workers in the Welfare Fund campaign today are making the most strenuous efforts since the $965,679 canvass started. The sum of $46,074.63 reported yesterday increased the total to $865,422.94.

"The money is in Pittsburgh," said Chairman Augustus K. Oliver today. "Our chief difficulty comes from not having sufficient messengers to send after it. The people are supporting the Welfare Fund generously and there are many who have not yet been asked. While we are making this final effort we are requesting those who have not been reached to join us in teamwork for humanity by sending their contributions direct, making their checks payable to the Welfare Fund."

In the closing hours of the campaign residents in districts which had not been thoroughly canvassed volunteered their own donations and assisted by soliciting subscriptions from their neighbors who were urged to send their gifts to the offices of the Welfare Fund in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

The big contribution yesterday came from the theatrical committee, headed by Dennis J. Harris, being the receipts from the benefit in the Stanley Theater held under the auspices of the committee and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. It netted the fund $3,737.77.

Large gifts were reported from the employes teams in stores, public utilities corporations and industrial plants, and the house-to-house canvass turned in sums exceeding $11,000, increasing the total for the canvassers in the city and county to more than $107,000.

NEPHEW OF K MARRIES N. GIRL TODAY

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y., Dec. —(AP.)—Estelle Romaine Manvil daughter of an American industri king, and Count Folke Bernadotte nephew of the King of Sweden, will be married late today at a ceremon estimated to cost three-quarters o a million dollars.

Invited guests include the majority of those socially prominent in New York, members of the Swedish royal family and of the aristocracy of Europe. It will be the first time a member of a royal family will have been married on United States soil.

Due to the small size of St. John's Episcopal Church, where the ceremony will be performed, wedding guests will number only about 250 but the guest list for the reception at Hi-Esmaro, the Manville country estate, includes 1,600 names.

After the wedding the bride and groom will tour the United States which the groom has not seen extensively, and will later make their home in Stockholm.

The bridal veil will be of Brussels lace, which was worn Count Bernadotte's grandmother the late Queen Sophia of Sweden at her wedding. The veil will be held in place by a coronet of silver and precious stones.

Count Folke Bernadotte is the youngest son of Prince Oscar Bernadotte, second brother of King Gustav V. of Sweden. He is a descendant of Napoleon's Marshal Bernadotte, whom the Corsican raised to the throne of Sweden in the nineteenth century. The young count is a lieutenant in the Royal Swedish Horse Guards, and an enthusiastic horseman.

Miss Manville, who is the daughter of H. E. Manville, chairman of the board of Johns-Manville, Inc., made her debut a few years ago in New York.

Members of the royal Swedish party include H. R. H. Prince Gustavus Adolphus, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, who will serve as Count Bernadotte's best man; Count Carl Bernadotte, the groom's brother; Count Carl Bonde, master of the King's horse, and his wife, Countess Ebba Bonde; Countess Elsa Bernadotte, sister of the groom.

Prior to the starting on his Antarctic venture, the Commander issued a farewell message in which he expressed deep appreciation of the courtesy and hospitality which he had received in New Zealand.

Both ships of the expedition will get under way today, the City of New York being towed to the edge of the Antarctic ice pack by the Eleanor Bolling in order to conserve the supply of fuel. Commander Byrd expects to reach the ice about 1,000 miles south of New Zealand and at that point the whaler Larsen will take over the duty of towing the City of New York.

ARREST MADE IN SLAYING OVER PAYMENT

Accused of slaying Joseph Mosco, 38, of 1112 Wheeler street, John Maiorine, 30, of 1018 Wheeler street, was arrested by City Detectives Thomas Flavin and Michael Tortorelli and lodged in the Central Police Station on a charge of murder last night. Maiorine was arrested at Penn avenue and Seventeenth street.

Mosco was shot to death November 4 while walking near his home. Maiorine is alleged to have fallen short on a payment on a house which Mosco had sold him recently, according to Homicide Detective Jerry Deasy. Maiorine, in an alleged confession, told detectives that Mosco had threatened him many times.

On the night of the slaying, Maiorine told detectives, they say, that Mosco stopped him and slapped his face. Mosco, according to Maiorine's story, then pulled out a gun and fired. Maiorine said that he returned the fire. Mosco was struck once in each shoulder and his death was instantaneous.

HELD 6 MO. AS SLAYER, VET FREE

PRICE, Utah, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Hayter O. Philion, Canadian war veteran, called the "unfortunate victim of mistaken identity" was free to return to his home in California today following the sudden termination of his trial on a murder charge last night when Judge George Christensen directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

The Judge acted when District Attorney Fred W. Keller moved to dismiss the case or direct a verdict. Philion, who had spent five months in the Carbon county jail awaiting trial, was charged with the murder in 1922 of James Papacostas, helper, Utah, pool hall proprietor.

Immediately following acquittal the daughters of Utah pioneers announced they had appointed a committee to procure funds to pay expenses of Philion's return to Los Angeles.

Philion was free six months to the day from the time of his arrest there as Jack "Blackie" Gibson, who is alleged to have slain Papacostas following an argument. District Attorney Keller, in making his motion, stated he was convinced Philion, who testified he was in Victoria, B. C., when Papacostas was slain, had no connection with the case, and that State Senator Knox Patterson's testimony that Philion bore little resemblance to Gibson was irrefutable. Judge Christensen declared it a case of mistaken identity.

"The six months following my arrest as 'Blackie' Gibson have been a harrowing experience to me," Philion said.

The trial was concluded under difficulties with several jurors, defense witnesses and the defendant himself ill with influenza. The jurors voiced determination to "see it through," however, and sought no trial recess.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 1.—Their applause when an attorney told a married woman that she could run around as much as she pleased just so she wasn't caught at it, nearly got four well-known women of near Uniontown sentenced in the Fayette county jail. Each was called before the bar of justice by Judge Thomas H. Hudson and informed that "this is no place of amusement." ## FARM PRICES NEAR NORMAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The purchasing power of farm products in terms of other commodities yesterday was reported "within 12 per cent of the 1909-1914 pre-war average" by the Department of Agriculture.

The bureau's report declared total crop production this year was 7.6 per cent above the average of the last 10 years. Production per capita was one-half of 1 per ent below the 10-year average, but the bureau noted the gradual decrease of the rate of population increase should "temper agricultural expansion."

CONFESSION ASTOUNDS POLICE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Evidence purporting to prove that seven human lives were sacrificed on Gordon Stewart Northcott's "murder farm" was in the secret files of investigating officers today.

And likewise it was learned that "not one-tenth of Northcott's confession" had been revealed.

During the past few days the most astounding hunt in Southern California's criminal history will be launched and carried on—a search for the "desert graveyard" east of Riverside, where, officers believe, remains of at least three bodies will be found.

They believe they will find there the battered, lead-filled skull of the Mexican whose headless body was found beside a road near Puente last February, and the bodies of at least two small boys.

AGREES TO GUIDE POLICE

It was learned today that Northcott had virtually agreed to guide the investigators to this grewsome burial ground, but had made certain stipulations.

One of these is that he be permitted first to talk to "his dear darling mother." Louise Northcott, who is still in jail in Calgary, Alberta, jointly charged with him with the murder of 9-year-old Walter Collins.

In the reason behind this stipulation, officers read a number of conclusions, all equally sinister.

The other stipulations, officers said, were "equally ridiculous," but they declared they were convinced that when the whole truth of the Northcott case is brought to light it will constitute one of the most amazing tales in all criminal history.

FATHER, TOO, HELD

Deputy District Earle Redwine, of Riverside county, and Capt. Bright, commanding the Los Angeles sheriff's homicide bureau, were to begin today what promises to be an intensive and prolonged grilling of Cyrus Northcott, the accused youth's father.

Since investigation of the murder farm began, the older Northcott has been a prisoner in the detention ward of the Riverside County Hospital. He is held as a material witness. What his status will be after the investigators complete their verbal barrage is, they said, a "matter of conjecture."

After assisting in the dedication of an airport there, he will continue on to Chicago. He repeated that he intended to make a third attempt at a non-stop flight from Canada to Havana in January.

Soloist

RUTH BRETON

Ruth Breton, violinist, will be soloist at Pittsburgh Symphony Society's second concert, tomorrow night in Syria Mosque.

RUTH BRETON ENGAGED BY SYMPHONY

Edward Specter, manager of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society, announced today that Ruth Breton, one of America's distinguished violinists, will be the soloist at the second concert of the society, to be held Sunday night at Syria Mosque.

The society, he said, considers itself fortunate in having secured Miss Breton on such short notice to substitute for Efrem Zimbalist, who was operated upon last week following a sudden illness. Miss Breton will play the Mendelssohn Concerto.

Miss Breton was born in Louisville, and was taught by Franz Kneisel and Leopold Auer. She started her career as a child prodigy and made her debut as a mature artist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Symphony Orchestra. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Philharmonic and the New York, Cleveland and Cincinnati Symphony Orchestras. In 1926 Miss Breton toured Europe and enjoyed an overwhelming success in London, Berlin, Munich and Hamburg.

Elias Breeskin will conduct the concert on Sunday night and the orchestra will play Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, "Prelude to Lohengrin" by Wagner; "Sorcerer's Apprentice," Dukas, and Goldmark's "Springtime Overture." Announcement was made at the headquarters, 1421 Park Building, that a few memberships in all classes still are available in the society.

ENGAGED, JOHN COOLIDGE IS KEEPING HARD AT WORK

PLAINVILLE, Conn., Dec. 1.—Relieved at the formal announcement of his engagement to Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Connecticut Governor, John Coolidge, son of the President, still is working hard at his desk in the New Haven office of a railroad. Formal announcement of the engagement and a tentative date for the wedding was announced Wednesday.

"Florence and John will be married in the Plainville Congregational Church sometime next summer, but where they live and what they do after that are matters they must decide for themselves." This was the announcement given out by Mrs. John Trumbull, wife of the Governor at a banquet Wednesay in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Connecticut executive and his wife.

The possibility of holding the wedding in the White House has been eliminated, Mrs. Trumbull said. There was some temptation to holding the wedding there, but it was decided not to hold the wedding until after Mr. Coolidge's term had expired. No definite date, other than the summer of 1929 has been selected.

There has been no word of approval yet received from the President or his wife, but it is known that they have been aware and have approved of the engagement for some time. A boquet of chrysanthemums was received by Mr. and Mrs. Trumbull from the President and his wife, along with a message of congratulations on their silver anniversary.

Betrothed, John Coolidge Goes Back to Work

JOHN COOLIDGE AT WORK

Announcement of his engagement to Florence Trumbull considerably relieves John Coolidge, son of the President, but today he is back at his clerk's desk at the New Haven offices, N. Y., N. H. and H. Railroad.

FLORENCE

This is the most recent photograph of Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull of Connecticut, who announced the engagement at a dinner party on their silver wedding anniversary at Plainville, Conn., and Florence. No ceremony attached itself to the announcement, contained only on place cards for the guests. The silent Coolidges, from Virginia, sent chrysanthemums and congratulations—for the anniversary.

Florence's acquaintance with John dates back several years to their college days at Mt. Holyoke and Amherst, respectively. They will not be married, it is said, until summer—therefore not in the White House.

UTO PROGRESS LIES ABROAD, SAYS SLOAN

eral Motors building. Mr. Sloan ated a vivid word-picture of the mendous and steady growth of nerica's automobile business in reign countries and its resultant ffect upon the prosperity of the nited States. As one listened it became evident that there is real omance in business. He told how e pampas of the Argentine now are using automobiles, how cars are displacing llamas Andes of Chili and Peru, the royal family of Japan e in limousines, although aining their shrinkums.

automobile is changing sychology of peoples—of na- declared Mr. Sloan, an alert, minded immaculately dressed of 53, who looks considerably nger.

ie visualizes a "very great po- tial demand" for American- de cars in the foreign field. scussing his recent trip abroad, said the motor industry in Eu- ope is advancing at a rapid pace, nd the sale of U. S.-manufactured ars is on the steady increase.

"The export markets offer great opportunities for sales of American-made cars," said Mr. Sloan in outlining how the automobile business can be expanded. "Our sales of motor cars overseas this year will exceed 250,000.

$300,000,000 BUSINESS

"General Motors, which operates in practically every country in the world, will do an overseas business for the year 1928 that will closely approximate $300,000,000. In 1927 the wholesale value of our sales overseas were $98,000,000. Our exports in 1926 were $98,000,000; in 1925 they were $77,000,000, and in 1924 over $50,000,000. That gives you an idea of how our foreign business has been expanding."

Mr. Sloan was asked if there was any truth in the report that when he was abroad he initiated negotiations looking to General Motors acquiring the largest automobile company in Germany.

"No," he replied promptly. "I can not understand how such stories get circulated."

Dispatches from Berlin had stated that one of the largest business deals between American and Germany was soon to be consummated with the acquisition by General Motors of control of the Opel automobile works, the largest automobile concern in Germany.

Mr. Sloan also denied negotiating with a big automobile company in Italy, as reported.

The General Motors chief executive smiled when asked if the point of saturation in automobile sales had been reached in the United States.

EXPECTS INCREASED SALES

"Personally, I do not think so," he replied. "I fully believe that not only will our present trend of motor car sales be maintained in this country but will increase.

"Yet we must accept the fact that it cannot increase at the same relative rate that it has in the past 10 years. One factor that will contribute to this increase is the export field, where the potential demand for automobiles is very great.

In many overseas countries nsportation of both goods and lividuals is in a very primitive ge. The railroads are scarce l limit transportation from one ge place to another. The rail- ads in some countries do not ve the people in the sense that e understand that term.

"The motor car, and the motor ruck as well, provides the only form of practical transportation. It does this at a relatively low cost and with greater flexibility and reliability. Even though road development in some countries is frequently in a poor state, the modern car can nevertheless go almost anywhere—and better than other mediums of transportation.

"Therefore, the use of the motor car and the motor truck is not only an economic necessity, but it is a contributing factor in the development of various countries. It gives the people a new outlook in life, changes them in a psychological way. It increases their breadth of vision, broadens their horizon and makes for better working conditions and a higher standard of living."

U. S. CARS DOMINATE

Mr. Sloan declared that outside of England and the continent of Europe the American-made motor car dominates the market.

"This is because American-made cars offer transportation of both goods and passengers at a relatively low cost, with comfort and reliability unequalled by any competing nation—not only unequalled but unapproached," he asserted.

"Although all overseas markets contribute to this general picture, conditions vary. I should say that South America offers the broadest and biggest opportunities for expansion—at least for the present. And, as I said, Mr. Hoover's visit to Latin-American countries will do a tremendous amount of good."

(Editor's Note—In Monday's story, the third and last article of this series, Mr. Sloan will comment on the New York stock market, which has been attracting considerable attention of late.)

RADIO FANS ASK [illegible]TTE[illegible] WAVELENGTH FOR WCAE

STATION POWER NOT BLAMED IN PROTESTS

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

Fans who get KFI, who have logged any number of outside stations since November 11, experience the greatest difficulty in getting WCAE, the station nearest home, according to letters sent the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Fans who have depended on WCAE for Red network programs of the National Broadcasting Company, are now "fishing" over the dials for other stations in the hookup, rather than listen to the local station with its squeals and howls.

That the new wavelength assigned WCAE is a distinct failure is best attested by the large number of fans who are writing in now after having given the new location a fair tryout. They report that the Radio Commission reallocations in general are very good, but there are too many stations on the lower bands, particularly around 245.8 meters. Persons who are getting WCAE request a change to a higher wavelength.

In some parts of Western Pennsylvania the station simply is not being heard. The following letter from M. J. Walsh, dean of instruction, Indiana, Pa., is a good example:

"What are you going to do about WCAE? Since the changes made by the Radio Commission have been able to get only squeals from where we figured WCAE should be. Not a person in or about Indiana has been able to hear that station. It is a serious matter when an entire district is shut completely off from a station like this and it has raised much bitter criticism in this locality."

"FAULT NOT STATION'S"

A well-to-do gentleman from Ben Avon, is "ashamed to tune for WCAE" when he has company. The noise reminds him of the less fortunate days "down on the farm," when he fed the pigs. The name and price of his set are mentioned. Very few of our readers could afford one.

"The fault is not with the station's power, because we remember the day when we received WCAE very well," writes Dorothy Beerman, of Emsworth.

Attorney Wade E. Heilman, of Kittanning, sent the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph a copy of a lengthy detailed letter submitted to the Radio Commission for its consideration.

Robert G. Lea, of 215 South Evaline street, who has always championed worthy causes for the improvement of radio reception in Pittsburgh, came forward with a complaint in yesterday's mail. Fans will remember Mr. Lea as the gentleman who fought vigorously for a "silent night" in Pittsburgh when it was next to impossible to get outside stations because of the equipment then in use. His efforts were recognized by the Radio Commission and led indirectly to a wholesale shakeup in wavelengths here.

Painter Paid $400 For Radio Stock; Worth $7,500

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 1.—When Joseph Smith, a Butler painter, died a few weeks ago, the only estate he left was 20 shares of stock in the Radio Corporation of America. The shares were purchased several years ago at $20 each. The heirs are two sisters and a brother—Mrs. Elizabeth Schindel, of Cleveland, Mrs. Anna Herman and Frank X. Smith, of Butler. The will provided that the stock should be held until 1932. The heirs have asked the Butler county court to dissolve the trust and order the stock to be sold, the value of which was estimated at more than $7,500 when the petition was filed this week.

C. OF C. MUSTERS 'ARMY' IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

The mobilization luncheon of the sales army for the membership and sustaining fund campaign of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday at noon in the auditorium of the chamber with William B. Rodgers, general, presiding, and with several hundred workers in attendance. Detailed arrangements for an intensive four-day drive to increase the membership to more than 6,000 and provide the organization with an income of $300,000 a year were detailed.

The drive will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

After T. P. Gaylord, president, had given the command "Let's go," there were two inspirational addresses—one by W. L. Monro, president of the American Window Glass Company, on "The Value of Organized Effort to Business," and the other by James Francis Burke on "Pittsburgh Opportunities."

The complete organization of the sales army for next week's campaign was announced by Gen. Rodgers as follows:

George S. Davison, general chairman; F. J. Chesterman, executive chairman; A. V. Snell, campaign director; A. C. Robinson, chairman educational division; Harry W. Neely, chairman of preparations division; A. L. Humphrey, sustaining fund chairman for industrial group, with Howard Galvin as adjutant; A. W. Robertson, sustaining chairman for special group; Harrison Nesbit, sustaining fund chairman for bankers' group, with Albert J. Stowe as adjutant; J. B. McFarland, colonel of the territorial group, with T. C. Poley as adjutant.

$10,000,000 DEAL LOOMS TO SAVE J. V. THOMPSON

UNIONTOWN, Dec. 1.—Notwithstanding the fact that there has been little activity in the matters of J. V. Thompson other than the issuance of two bench warrants for his arrest and indefinite imprisonment for failure to pay nearly a half-million dollars to the heirs of the Emma Messmore and John Niccolls estate, a report persists that the former coal king is working feverishly to close a $10,000,000 deal for the sale of 32,000 acres of Greene and Washington county coal.

Through this deal Mr. Thompson is provided the only means of escape from a prison term. Being pressed for the payment of money which Judge J. W. Dawson of the Orphans' Court has decreed is due the Princess of Thurn and Taxis and her three sons and heirs of Emma Messmore, Mr. Thompson has renewed negotiations which weeks ago were believed to have been indefinitely discontinued.

Persons who heretofore had little faith in the closing of the deal for some unexplained reason now have taken an optimistic view and expect a most important development within the near future.

If the big deal goes through Mr. Thompson, his friends say, will be able to meet all his obligations to the two estates and thus remove forever the shadow of the prison bars into which he has been cast.

Uniontown persons who have tossed their coal holdings into Mr. Thompson's "pot" say that matters have taken such a favorable turn that the deal now is nearer a certainty than ever before.

Greene Co. Industry Produces $14,288,600

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—Greene county's industrial products last year were worth $14,288,600, according to figures contained in the annual report of the state department of agriculture, received here. The county stood forty-fifth among the 67 counties of the state during the past year in industrial production. Capital invested in industries located in the county during the past year amounted to $33,445,300, while 5,140 employes engaged in various industrial pursuits here received wages totalling $6,334,60. Coal mining and oil and gas drilling were the leading organized industries in the county.

Kidnaper of Wife Held, Though She Doesn't Mind

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—Peter Galanos, baker, of Donora, Pa., who a few days ago kidnaped his wife, Helen, from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Synodinas, of Steubenville, is held in the jail at Donora to await extradition to Ohio, although Mrs. Galanos declares that she was willing to accompany her husband.

Mrs. Galanos went to the home of her parents to visit and they objected to her returning to her husband.

Mrs. Galanos said she called her husband by telephone and asked him to come and get her. Galanos and a friend went to the Synodinas' home and took her out at the point of revolvers, it is charged.

Social World to Take Breathing Spell as Busy Week Ends

TODAY sees the close of a week that has been by far the busiest of the season, combining an important wedding, several large dances and a number of debutante parties with the celebration of Thanksgiving. Things will be a little quieter now, for a couple of weeks, and then we'll have all the Christmas holiday activities.

Two or three debutante affairs are scheduled for today. One is Emily Stuart's coming-out party in Sewickley, and another is the breakfast and theater party being given by Mrs. Emma W. Locke, of the Iroquois Apartments. Mrs. Locke is giving her breakfast in the University Club, followed by a theater party at the Alvin, for two of the buds, Dorothea Jenkins and Bettie McCullough, and the other debutantes are guests—about 30 in all, I believe.

And speaking of the buds, perhaps you would be interested in knowing that after the Sutton tea-dance on Thanksgiving, the John M. Millers, of the Alder Court Apartments, entertained four of the debutantes at dinner in the William Penn Hotel. These guests were Oliveretta Sutton, Bettie Guiler, Katharine Schley and Bettie Dunlap.

As for dances, one of the largest of the season was held last night in the University Club—the affair given by the dispenboard of St. Margaret's Hos- Masses of palms and ferns used in decorating the ballland on the supper tables were rs of yellow roses and chrysanums.

high-light of the dance, per- was the fashion show. Mary e Johnson was in charge of and she and a group of other served as models to display an tment of the latest frocks, and sport costumes. Among models were Jane Allderdice, inia Willock, Marjorie Kimball, W. W. Blair, Jr., Mrs. Harvey Childs, III, Helen Leovy, Josephine Nicola, Mrs. Stuart Brown, Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie, Mrs. J. Shirley Austin, Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, Jr., Mrs. Sidney Stewart and Catherine Suydam.

A number of the debutantes were there, coming rather late after the dinner, which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Faber Brooks, of Shields, gave in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for two of the buds, Virginia Willock and Margaret Holdship. Dorothea Jenkins, who made her bow just yesterday, wore cream taffeta with a tight bodice and bouffant skirt, while her sister, Elizabeth, appeared in blue transparent velvet. Bettie McCullough also wore a period frock, in pale pink satin, and Marian Stone appeared in deep rose velvet. Janet MacGregor's frock was of white satin and lace, and Katherine Schley appeared in green velvet. Bettie Dunlap was there, too, wearing cream lace with a huge bow of green velvet.

This year's fashions in evening frocks is unusually attractive, I think, and I believe anyone who was at the dance last night will agree with me. One of the out-of-town guests, Mrs. F. Malcolm Minor, of Montclair, N. J., who is visiting Mrs. Charles S. Wunder, publicity chairman for the dance, wore a particularly interesting gown of hydrangea blue velvet, made on long lines with a skirt sweeping the floor in back. Mrs. Wunder appeared in a lovely frock of cream chiffon, heavily beaded.

A gown of deep coral chiffon with a flounced skirt was worn by Miss Marjorie Gethoefer, who is president of the board. And some of the others who wore beautiful gowns were Mrs. Harvey Childs III, in wine chiffon; Mrs. Albert H. Burchfield, Jr., who appeared in a frock made of silver sequins; Mrs. Donald Scott Rodgers, in pale gold satin with a draped skirt; Mary Louise Johnson, in fuchsia velvet; Nancy Allderdice, wearing gold brocade with a bouffant skirt of tulle; Mrs. Stanley Brown, in king's blue crepe; Mrs. Louis Robinson Schmertz, Jr., wearing green crepe with a shawl of deeper green; Mrs. W. Ford Moreland, who was general chairman for the ball, in brown satin and net with a flounced skirt; Mary Carroll, in black velvet trimmed with sequins, and Elizabeth Leovy, in bright cerise chiffon.

No less attractive were the frocks worn by Anna Margaret Snow, who appeared in cream lace; Anna K. Childs, chartreuse green satin with a flounced skirt; Mrs. Ewing Laporte, green velvet; Mrs. Cameron Mann, a gown of white crepe; Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, Jr., flesh-tinted crepe made with a flounced skirt; Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie, cream satin; Mrs. Sidney Stewart, white satin; Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., midnight blue crepe; Virginia Forsyth, black velvet, and Ellen McClay, white satin.

Then I noticed Mrs. Shirley Austin wearing fuchsia velvet; Mrs. L. W. Danforth, a newcomer here and a niece of George Nicola, wearing black chiffon; Geraldine West, in shell pink moire; Margaret Ramsburg, a frock of orchid satin with a tiered skirt of matching net; Marjorie Kimball, black chiffon; Mrs. Edmund W. Mudge, black velvet; Mrs. Samuel Kier, who also wore a gown of black velvet, and Mrs. Charles Jarrett, in a frock of black chiffon.

At about 11 o'clock, the fashion show began, the girls moving about the ballroom floor to display their gowns. After the show was over, supper was served in the smaller dining room. A lucky number dance was also a feature, the women's prize being a metallic evening bag and the men's, a silver belt set.

Miss Sylvia Richmond, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Edith Richman, his sister, were maids of honor, wearing frocks of green chiffon and orange taffeta, respectively. Herman Lloyd Rothman, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers included Louis H. Evans, of New Haven, Conn.; Sidney Deckinger, of Jamaica, L. I., and George Rattner, of New Haven. The bride attended the Pittsburgh Musical Institute and was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Richman is a graduate of Trinity College and the Yale Law School.

STATE'S FIRST GENERAL DOE SEASON OPENS TODAY

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—At sunrise today the first general doe season in Pennsylvania since game preservation was instituted opened with thousands of hunters in the woods.

Fifty-four counties of the state's 67 were originally opened by the state game commission to antlerless deer hunting, but since then the number has been decreased to 50 by court injunctions in Pike, Monroe, Northampton and Wyoming counties. Close to 100,000 special doe licenses have been issued throughout the state, but it is not likely that that large a number will hunt for the female deer, from now until December 15, the closing date, because of the unfavorable weather outlook and the opposition to the killing of does.

ELK SEASON OPENS

Killing of elk will also be legal for the next two weeks while yesterday marked the closing of the seasons on wild turkey, ruffed grouse, partridge and quail, squirrels and raccoons. Beginning today rabbits and bears may be shot six days a week instead of the three-day per week season of the last month.

What was intended as an experiment by the game commission in making the kill of does legal this year and closing the usual buck season, so as to establish a more equal ratio of the sexes, has developed into a spirited controversy between certain groups of sportsmen on one side and the game commission and farmers on the other. Court proceedings were instituted in the Dauphin County Court to test the legality of the commission's order, but hearing on the question was postponed until near the end of the season, thereby preventing any ruling before the season is closed.

Opposition became so strong, however, in the eastern part of the state that injunctions had been previously obtained restraining the sale of the special licenses in Monroe and Pike counties. On Wednesday the game commission issued orders to stop the issuance of licenses still available with the hope of forestalling any additional injunctions.

Yesterday, however, the Wyoming and Northampton County Courts issued restraining orders prohibiting the issuance of any more licenses and enjoining the holders of permits already obtained in those counties from using them.

Other opposition has taken form in the posting of grounds by land owners against hunting and the announced intention of numerous hunters to procure the licenses and then destroy them so as to prevent men who want to hunt does from doing so.

SPECIAL LICENSES

The extent of these measures remains to be seen, but from preliminary reports they may be widespread.

The special licenses are valid only in the counties where issued and the bag limit is one deer per person during the season. In addition to the four counties where the injunctions are in force, hunting of does will be illegal in Chester, Crawford, Delaware, Erie, Greene, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Mercer, Montgomery, Montour, Philadelphia and Washington counties.

Shooting deer with visible antlers is punishable by a $100 fine.

DRY RAIDERS HIT HILL TOP PLACE

Eagle-eyed prohibition agents yesterday observed an alleged rum runner carry whisky into a saloon at 519 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, they say. Seizure of the whisky-laden car and a raid on the saloon followed. The saloon, conducted, agents say, by Andrew Haag, 31, yielded large quantities of beer and liquor. O. C. Strasburger, Jr., 31, of 123 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver, alleged driver of the car, was arrested along with Haag, the agents' report states.

Frozen Babe's Body Shipped to Indiana

The body of Clara Elizabeth Gault, 3 months, who was frozen and died of exposure here in an automobile in which her father and mother were driving to Anderson, Ind., last Sunday, has been shipped to that city for interment. The child's father, Theodore P. Gault, Cambria county miner, was en route to the bedside of his mother, who was reported dying. He and his wife continued to Anderson, but were not allowed to take the baby's body with him. The family was unable to pay for a funeral, and John A. Freyvogle, exalted ruler of Pittsburgh Lodge of ese human rats infest every strata of society. It is not only the rich widow and heiress who is a victim of their honeyed attack. Even the humble working girl's small savings are often big enough bait.

EN will women learn to see through the persuasive arguments of men who make it their business to dishonor women them out of their honest savings.

Among crooks those who outwit women are looked upon with disgust by those who at least match their cunning with men.

Beware of the man who wants to borrow money from a woman.

Don't broadcast your bank account to your boy friends.

These honeyed arguments are rarely in your favor when the adjectives are sifted.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE BEST LAID PLANS

By FELICIA WAYNE.

HE still thought she was pretty. Even after five years of breakfasting opposite her, too early in the morning for her to resort to niceties of dress, the camouflage of cosmetics. Five years, he thought. That's a long time. Let's see—that makes 1,825 breakfasts together. He yawned and turned to look at his wife. At that moment she opened her eyes and smiled at him a little timidly. "You certainly don't look as though you'd had that many breakfasts," he said aloud, as he glanced at her slender arms that were lying so close.

Zelda Wayne sat up in bed with a jerk. "Sometimes I think I married a zany," she confessed. "You do get the craziest ideas." But Roger wasn't thinking of her any more. He was wondering why he had fallen in love, a few months ago, with Marilyn Astor—wondering if Zelda realized he was no longer in love with her. Did she feel the strain between them—could she detect his indifference?

He never doubted his wife's love for a moment. That was characteristic of Roger—taking things for granted like that. What wasn't characteristic of him, though, was a determination to divorce Zelda so that he could be free to marry again. For weeks he had been unable to work—the problem had been searing his brain, burning deep holes in his mind. Essentially, Roger Wayne was a considerate man. He could not bring himself to hurt someone who loved him. But Roger Wayne was also a selfish man. He couldn't bring himself to make a sacrifice for someone who loved him.

What course presented itself to him, then, but compromise? Now if Zelda were to fall in love with someone else he would give her a divorce—and they would live happily ever after—apart. Suddenly it came to him. He would invite a few of his college chums who were unmarried, to spend a week or two with them. Zelda wouldn't suspect. As a matter of fact she loved "hostessing around," as she called it, and his plan would provide every opportunity for it. Even if it didn't succeed, while Zelda was entertaining her guests he would be able to slip out to meet Marilyn more often. A bully idea!

The very next day he wired Dick Ross, the most attractive man in the class of '22, to spend a week-end with them. Dick was big and boyish and charming. But he failed utterly to make any impression on Zelda. Roger had to admit. Yet Roger tried again. And failed again. It seemed to Roger that each time Zelda met another one of his friends her love for her husband grew anew. He was beginning to give up the plan as ridiculous when an old friend of his who had been living abroad for some time telephoned him.

"You big bum," said Charley Pines over the phone, "why didn't you answer my letter? And how the devil have you been? I'll bet you haven't given an old friend a thought these many years."

Roger was so delighted to hear the voice of his old chum that he almost forgot his troubles. So it was with no other thought in mind but the anticipation of a grand reunion that he invited Pines to dinner at the house that evening. But such is the trickery of fate that no sooner had Zelda laid eyes on Pines than she was completely captivated by him. For Pines had what none of Roger's other friends, for all their physical attractiveness, possessed. He had a continental charm, and airy sophistication that made itself felt immediately.

He had, in addtion, a genuine knowledge and appreciation of women. Zelda Wayne he knew at a glance to be a fine woman—a rare personality. So it was almost involuntarily that he ignored Roger and devoted himself to Zelda. During the first week of his stay at the Wayne home he had succeeded so thoroughly in interesting Zelda that Roger realized his problem was almost solved. For the third time that week he had had no difficulty in staying away in the evening. When he phoned Zelda now to say he would not be home for dinner she no longer asked why. She no longer suggested that they meet later, in the city, and go to dinner together. As a matter of fact Roger thought he detected a note of relief in her voice, as she said, "All right, dear. I know you're busy at the office."

Sometimes this irritated Roger a little. After all, she couldn't have been so deeply in love with him and yet have fallen so hard for Pines. Perhaps she had been playing a game with him all these years. Perhaps she had only married him for his money. The thought was abhorrent. No, she couldn't have feigned love so expertly. But even as the idea entered his mind, he shuddered. The blood rushed to his head and his heart pounded violently. Had he been the dupe of a scheming woman—a victim of her pretty tricks.

When he got home that evening he watched Zelda and Pines more closely. They certainly had a case on each other, he admitted. Zelda never looked at him that way. And she had taken such pains to look her best, that evening. For the first time in many months Roger found himself wishing that she would pay a little attention to him. After all, he thought, Pines isn't such a knockout. What can she see in him?

All during dinner he was silent, watching his wife and Pines laughing, chatting gaily. Then he went upstairs to the telephone and phoned Marilyn Astor. "I'm awfully sorry about tonight," he said, "but I'm going to be busy at home. I'll call you soon."

When he came downstairs again he saw Zelda put her head on Charley Pines' shoulder. It was only a gesture of friendliness, but Roger didn't know that. All he knew was that his pretty wife, whom he adored, was falling in love with someone else. At the realization he grew livid with jealousy. He faced Pines, and his voice resounded throughout the house. "As a guest you are taking too many liberties," he said.

When Pines had left Roger Wayne drew his wife to him and said something that convinced her he was crazy. "So many breakfasts," he murmured. . . .

Death of Writer Is Held Suicide

MONTEREY, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury decided here yesterday that Ira Remsen, Carmel artist and writer, came to his death as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Remsen was found dead by guests who had arrived for Thanksgiving dinner.

BUGS BAER Says

SOME divorce facts from the City of Lilies and Wreaths, sometimes known as Chicago.

A prominent citizen of that town was playing bridge with his wife and two other miscreants.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Full of the joy of living in an age of science and research he led an ace with all the confidence of a channel swimmer in a bathtub.

Now, when you lead an ace in bridge you are leading an ace. An ace is like the American flag on the bronze sox of the Statue of Liberty. No power on earth can pull them down.

When you lead an ace in bridge you can loll back, light a pipe or even take a short nap.

There is no higher card than an ace, unless you are playing in the Park Central.

So imagine the consternation of the citizen when his wife reaches way back into the guide book and polices a trump on that big, flaming ace.

After that, things were as quiet as a trip-hammer gliding through a rush order of new farm implements.

The citizen reached over the table and slammed his wife right on the nose.

Their ridicule turned to admiration when she answered the waiter in French.

When she told the judge the facts, the judge also punched her on the beezer.

That was two punches. And she saved 12 more by not demanding a trial by jury.

The only verdict possible under the circumstances was, "Felonious and grevious bodily injury with attempt to educate."

Hollywood Tales and Gossip About Amusements in Local Theaters

LILI DAMITA, FRENCH ACTRESS, MAY GET LEADING ROLE IN NEW PICTURE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.

THE red hot contest for roles in Metro's "The Bridge at San Luis Rey" continues to cause speculation wherever film folk meet. Jane Winton, Raquel Torres, Ivan Lebedeff and Ernest Torrence have been signed, sealed and delivered to Director Charles Brabin. The picture bids fair to be Metro's most important for the season.

There still remains to be filled the most important of all the parts, that of the actress whom you must recall if you have read the book. Competition for the lead has narrowed down to Estelle Taylor and Lili Damita, French actress. Each of the girls has her partisans in the conference chamber, but it begins to look as though Lili will follow her American debut in Ronald Colman's film, "The Rescue," with this role.

Vilma Banky, got home Wednesday with a lot of funny stories about her experience "Dealing 'Em Off the Arm" as a waitress in a New York lunch room while playing heroine in "Childs'- Fifth Avenue." Which, incidentally, remains the title of her picture despite the many changes suggested to date. Rod LaRoque, still very much the adoring bridegroom, was on hand to greet her. And, Hollywood celebrated her return by attending en masse the tea which Rod planned as a "welcome home."

Poet to Write Picture Dialogue

ANOTHER little bit of Broadway has reached Hollywood in the person of Dorothy Parker, who has temporary forsaken her career as a versifier to try a fling at the films, via the scenario department for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She is to write dialogue for sound pictures, and will doubtless find a moment here and there in which to renew a young but ardent friendship with Jack Gilbert.

It seems that Ruth Elder is bound to make her mark in movies after all. Although her Paramount experience was a disappointment, Ruth got a second chance as Hoot Gibson's leading lady. She did so well in the one picture for which he signed her, that Hoot has determined to produce a series of aviation pictures co-starring himself and Ruth. She has courage, ability and beauty. With a little more experience before the cameras, she may give the best of them a run for honors.

Carmel Meyers To Play Mother

CARMEL MYERS will be seen in her next picture in a type role which she has never played before. She has been cast in a mother part in "The Red Sword," and will cover her auburn locks with a grey wig. Marian Nixon, Buster Collier and Noah Beery are in the picture. But this doesn't mean that Carmel will play the part of Noah's mother.

Latest among the movie ills to fall ill of "flu" is Hollywood's favorite redhead, Clara Bow. The "It" girl was stricken while in attendance at a football game. She had to be assisted from the grandstand to the train and was hustled to a hospital with a skilled nurse in attendance. Jeanie MacPherson, scenarist, who cooperates with Cecil B. DeMille, is also experiencing a desperate battle with the insidious germs, as is the fair Camilla Horn. Winifred Westover, formerly Mrs. Bill Hart, has emerged victorious from her "flu" session, and so has Ethel Armstrong, wife of Robert Armstrong, who is about town again, a bit wan, but a winner. Patsy Ruth Miller and Richard Arlen are still unable to work, although better.

Plan to Launch New Child Star

The valiant Warner Brothers are seriously considering an attempt to launch another kid star in an attempt to transplant the laurels once worn by Baby Peggy and Jackie Coogan. The youngster in the case is Davy Lee, who gave Al Jolson a run for his money in "The Singing Fool." The story is that Davy will have a picture all his own soon after the New Year. "Sonny Boy" wouldn't be a bad name for it, do you think?

Now that the Barrymore-Costello and Denny-Lee nuptials have been celebrated upon one and the same day, Hollywood is wondering whether Lida Basquette will marry "Pev" Marley before Sue Carroll and Nick Stuart march down the aisle. Or whether, perhaps, Janet Gaynor and her San Francisco boy friend, or maybe Joan Crawford and "Doug" Fairbanks, Jr., will beat the others to it. Strange to say, neither Clara Bow nor Alice White is especially "engaged" right now. Both the girls have been "free-lancing" of late, and enjoying it for a change.

Guess who took a movietone vote last yesterday? Our old pal, Jack Dempsey, himself, and it wouldn't be a bit surprising if there is an announcement from Fox that the hero of "The Big Fight" has been signed up for a talkie.

All - Tschaikovsky Program for Tonight

A special program of music composed by Tschaikovsky will be presented by Dr. Heinroth in Carnegie Music Hall at 8:15 o'clock this evening. The program includes overture solenelle, "The Year 1812," "Adagio Lamentoso" from "Symphony Pathetique," Humoreske, overture, Danse de la Fee Dragee, Danse Arabe, Valse des Fleurs, from "Nutcracker Suite," Chant Sans Parole, Intermezzo from Orchestral Suite, Op. 12, Marche Slave, Op. 31.

The program for 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon is as follows: Jubilee Overture, Weber; Salut d'Amour, Elgar; Allegretto in B Minor, Guilmant; Fantasia in E Minor (The Storm), Lemmens; "A Mountain Fastness Is Our God" and "Now Thank We All Our God," Karg-Elert; symphonic poem "Le Rouet d'Omphale," Saint-Saens; march from "Tannhauser," Wagner.

Fay Wray, one of the screen's good-lookers, next will be seen in "The Four Feathers," in which Richard Arlen, Clive Brook and William Powell also are featured.

Herbert Brenon and Ronald Colman, director-star team of "Beau Geste," are associated again in "The Rescue," photodrama adaptation of Joseph Conrad's sea narrative.

Ruth Taylor shows you the novelty in shoe adornment, hand-carved wooden buckle. This sample of footgear is a pump made of lizard skin. Also note Ruth's initial.

HER HUSBAND'S HAIR WAS FULL OF ITCHY DANDRUFF

Turning Gray, Too, and It Made Him Look Old and Untidy.

BEGAN GIVING HIM TREATMENT AT HOME

"I wish you could see the marvelous change in the appearance of his hair and scalp since I began rubbing into his scalp a little of this Lea's Hair Tonic—I figured if women could stimulate the growth and rid themselves of gray hairs and unhealthy scalp conditions with it—a man could do the same," declared a lady customer at a drug store.

"His scalp is as clean and healthy as as a new born baby's, and Lea's Hair Tonic brought back the color to every gray hair in his head. Business friends say Harry looks years younger—yet never suspect how I worked rubbing in the Lea's with my finger tips. Gee, results were so splendid I began using it too." Mrs. A. M. K.

Men like it for the way it stimulates the growth of hair and the way it rids the scalp of dandruff, and when their gray hairs start coming back to original color they are amazed. Lea's restores the scalp roots and hair to proper working conditions, which produce healthy, natural looking hair in abundance. It positively will stimulate the growth of hair on a larger percentage of bald heads than any other known tonic. Druggists have it, or send dollar bill to Lea Tonic Company, Brentwood, Md., for bottle and directions by return mail.

AMERICANS OBTAIN GOALIE

BULLETIN.

Just after the management of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club had completed the final details today in the deal for the sale of Roy Worters to the New York Americans the dicker was held up, temporarily at least, by a telegram from League President Frank J. Calder stating that he would reinstate Worters only on condition that he play for the Pittsburgh team and no other.

THE deal whereby Roy Worters, former Pirate goalie, will go to the New York Americans, was closed today.

Owner Benny Leonard, of the Pirates, upon his arrival here from New York this morning, reluctantly admitted reports from New York that arrangements had been completed for the transfer of the player who had got in bad with the local management by holding out for what was considered an exorbitant salary.

Leonard has agreed to take $20,000 and permanent title to Joe Miller, who has been subbing for Worters in the locals' net since the opening of the season, for his star, after having failed in a dicker for less money and an additional American player.

The deal now requires only President Frank Calder's o. k. The league chief was expected in town today, but Leonard said his plans had been changed and he would not be here to see the Pirates play the Chicago Black Hawks at Duquesne Garden tonight.

TO BUY PLAYERS

"I will spend the $20,000 which I will receive for Worters for new players to strengthen the Pittsburgh Club," Benny said.

The meeting with the Black Hawks is the second of the season for our hard-luck Pirates, who returned yesterday from a hard road trip to the East and Canada. Pittsburgh defeated the Hawks at Chicago, 2-0, on November 20. Since then the Hawks have played a 1-1 tie with Boston and lost to the New York Rangers, 2-1.

The Pirates' jinx of being nosed out in hard-fought battles pursued them throughout the trip that saw them play three games prior to tonight's contest for a busy week. They lost to the Rangers, 2-1, in New York last Sunday night and then dropped a 1-0 decision to the Bruins at Boston, following up with their second tie with Les Canadiens at Montreal Thursday. They have been playing fine hockey, but have been unfortunate. When matters break for them they should go ahead at a fast clip. Their record to date is one victory, four defeats and two ties, yet they have had only eight goals scored against

Father Drops Dead Watching Son on Gridiron

CLARKSVILLE, Ark., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—J. W. Rice, 55, postmaster at Dumas, dropped dead of heart trouble shortly after watching his son play his last game with the College of the Ozarks here Thanksgiving Day. The son, Glenn Rice, is the only four-letter man at the college, which defeated State Teachers' College, 13 to 0, in an exciting game.

W. & J. Gridder Fractures Leg

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—X-ray pictures yesterday showed the leg injury suffered by Don Lewis, of Pittsburgh, varsity halfback on the Washington and Jefferson College football team, to have been a single fracture of a small leg bone just above the ankle. He is in a hospital here. Lewis suffered the hurt late in the second period of the West Virginia struggle on Thanksgiving Day.

GRIDDER DIES

AURORA, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Ray Shinners, 18, Milwaukee Normal football team end, died here Friday night as the result of injuries received in a football game at Naperville, Ill., Saturday. Shinners suffered a fractured vertebrae when he tackled a North Central College player.

TUFFY STOPPED BY BRADDOCK IN UPSET

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Tuffy Griffiths knocked out after 55 consecutive victories! Kid Chocolate, also unbeaten previously, held to a draw!

This was the double surprise given the customers at Madison Square Garden last night when Griffiths was kayoed in the second round by James J. Braddock, Jersey City light-heavyweight, and Chocolate, the sensational Negro bantamweight, was fought to a standstill by the hard-hitting Joe Scalfaro, of New York.

Promoter Tex Rickard, who had counted upon these two stars to draw several huge gates for him this winter, had barely recovered from the double shock when his plans for elimination tournaments were further shattered by reports of two fistic upsets in other cities. Jim Maloney, long a punching bag for Grade A heavyweights, jumped right back into the picture by outpointing Johnny Risko, a topnotcher, in Boston last night. And Baby Face McLarnin's hopes for a return bout with Champion Sammy Mandell were ruined when he was knocked out in Detroit by Ray Miller, Windy City lightweight.

RECORD FOR UPSETS

Four upsets like that on one evening is a record, or ought to be.

Griffiths and Chocolate faced a big moment. The Sioux City (Ia.) crack was making his first appearance in the East, and the Cuban was fighting at the Garden for the first time after many bouts at the smaller clubs. Griffiths was a 1-to-4 favorite.

Braddock, who broke Pete Latzo's jaw in his last start, ruined Griffiths with a straight right to the chin in the second round. The widely-heralded Western crack hit the canvas for the first time in his career. Too dazed to take advantage of a count of nine, he arose after a count of three.

Braddock promptly floored Tuffy again with a second load of dynamite. Crawling instinctively to his feet in a daze, the Western terror was knocked down twice more, four times in all. Then Kid McPartland carried the groggy battler to his corner without the formality of a count.

CHOCOLATE HELD EVEN

Kid Chocolate, as well as Griffiths, was floored for the first time in his career. A right by Scalfaro, the first punch of the bout, sent him to the canvas. As in the case of Griffiths, the Kid was dazed and arose immediately. He weathered the storm, however, and rallied to gain a draw in 10 rounds.

NINETEEN FATALITIES ON GRIDIRON

HUGO BEZDEK, director of athletics and head football coach at Penn State, has become so accustomed to meeting with adversity in the Lions' yearly tangle with the Pitt Panthers that he is now able to hide his annual disappointment behind a smile, albeit a rueful one.

Hugo Bezdek

Nine straight years without a victory over a cherished rival, and seven defeats in succession at the hands of that same foe, constitute a bitter pill for any coach to swallow, but after his team had been walloped here on Thursday for the seventh consecutive time, Bezdek's only comment was: "Well, there's nothing like being consistent."

THE unbroken string of defeats suffered by Penn State in the last seven meetings with Pitt is in striking contrast to the results that Bezdek got in his early seasons as coach of the Blue and White. It was a war year, 1918, in which Hugo succeeded Dick Harlow, and the Centre Countians played only four games, but though they lost to Pitt they were the first to score on the Panthers after Wash-Jeff, Penn and Georgia Tech had failed, and of their other three contests they won two and tied one.

In the following season, 1919, with his war players back, "Bez" developed a team that beat Pitt 20 to 0, and in 1920 and 1921 he kept the standard of his elevens sufficiently high to enable them to hold the Blue and Gold to two scoreless ties. Since that time Penn State has been beaten decisively every year by the locals, scoring only two touchdowns in the seven games, whereas in six of the seven meetings Pitt piled up 20 or more points, making 14 in the other.

BEZDEK'S most impressive showing at Penn State was made in 1919, 1920 and 1921. During those three years his teams won 22 games and tied four against only one defeat. The only game lost in the three seasons was dropped to Dartmouth in 1919, and even in that contest the Lions scored 13 points against 19 for Dartmouth. In the same year Penn State beat Penn, Lehigh, Cornell and Pitt in four successive games. The season's record was seven victories and one defeat.

In 1920, though tied by Pitt and Lehigh, the Blue and White went

GLENN (POP) WARNER

The former coach of the Carlisle Indians and Pitt, recognized as one of the outstanding geniuses among the football mentors of the land, who has brought his Stanford University squad of California East to battle the powerful Army team at the Yankee Stadium, New York, today in a game that takes the place of the annual Army-Navy classic. The eyes of the entire sporting world are on the clash. In his mind's eye above, Warner sees his star, Frankie Wilton, dashing from his B formation for a touchdown against the Army. Sixteen plays are run from this formation, which Warner has diagrammed and which he explains in his book, "Football for Coaches and Players," as follows: "No. 9 (Fleishacker) receives ball, starts toward short side of line and hands the ball to No. 11 (who is Wilton in the actual play this year). No. 11 reverses and runs off tackle, with an option to lateral pass to No. 10. No. 4 comes out of the line to block end and No. 1 and No. 2 come around outside of defensive tackle as interference, while No. 7 and No. 8 block tackle in."

Cubs to Card Only 18 Training Games

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Safety and sanity is to be the slogan of the Chicago Cubs when they embark on their spring training program at Catalina Island. Disliking to book a strenuous practice schedule, President William Veeck hopes to confine the barnstorming to 18 games. Subject to Manager Joe McCarthy's approval, Veeck has tentatively arranged for departure of the club in two squads from here February 16 and February 22. The battery men will arrive on the island February 19 and the regulars a week later.

At present, only nine conditioning days are in prospect before the club moves to Los Angeles for the first exhibitions March 8, 9 and 10. After their second appearance there March 15, 16 and 17, they will return to the island for more practice before playing the Detroit Tigers, March 21 to 24 at Los Angeles.

The Pittsburgh Pirates want a game March 23, but their proposition is still in the air. From March 25 to April 16 the club will get in a week of real practice, play four games at Houston, Tex., and three more at Kansas City, April 13, 13 and 14.

MARTINSBURG VICTOR

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Martinsburg High School football eleven captured the Cumberland Valley Athletic League 1928 title in Winchester, Va., Thanksgiving Day, defeating Handley High School, of Winchester, Va., 12-6, giving Martinsburg a clean slate of four victories and no losses.

80,000 TO SEE IRISH BATTLE TROJANS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The piratical football craft of Notre Dame, rover of many seas of the pigskin sphere, stuck its bristling prow into this far western gridiron port yesterday. The Knute Rockne man o' war menacingly swung at anchor last night with all decks cleared for action, all hands fit for grueling battle and armed to the teeth for the annual assault on the rugged football stronghold of Southern California Trojans today. It showed little evidence of having been scuttled by the Skibos of Carnegie Tech two weeks ago.

Twice before that Carnegie Tech debacle, the football ship that gives South Bend as its home port, but spends the greater part of its time on the high seas, was sunk by the guns of enemy grid troops. Each time it was salvaged with dire results to succeeding adversaries. The Skibo defeat served only to whet the unquenchable fighting spirit of the Rockneemen and their best was promised for the intersectional struggle with the unvanquished Trojans.

IRISH IN LEAD

Twice these two great gridiron forces have met and each time the Ramblers of South Bend managed to scale the cragged walls of Troy and eke out a win by a one-point margin. In 1926, on the Coliseum Field here, they came from behind to win 13 to 12. Last year, before a great outpouring of 117,000 in Soldiers Field, they repulsed the Westerners, 7 to 6.

Today—as evenly matched as two gridiron elevens possibly can be—the Ramblers, whose salvos silenced the guns of Navy and Army, and the Trojan phalanx, which crushed a path through the West's football ranks to an unofficial Pacific Coast Conference championship, will take the field.

Coach Rockne has come to town with a team that is considered just as strong as that of last season, and Southern California's followers look upon their chances as never better. With both keyed up psychologically

CARDINALS FIGHT ARMY ELEVEN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The unique spectacle of the Army meeting Stanford University in a great intersectional climax to the football season in the East has sophisticated New York steamed up to fever pitch.

Despite a dismal all-day drizzle and predictions of rain today, a capacity crowd of 86,000 was assured for the Yankee Stadium when the teams take the field at 1:30 o'clock. Not even in the bygone days of Army-Navy hysteria have New York fans registered more excitement over a football game. Conjecture as to the outcome is rampant with the teams almost exactly even in public esteem.

Poised for their greatest efforts in this game which brings their campaigns to an end, the Army and Stanford teams yesterday were bivouacked in quiet quarters far from the noise of Broadway.

TEAMS OUT OF CITY

The Cadets awaited the zero hour at the Travers Island Clubhouse of the New York Athletic Club while Stanford's Huskies were given a final blackboard talk by their coach, Pop Warner, at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club at Rye, where they are staying. The weather man effectually vetoed Army plans for a workout at the Stadium and none of the players will visit the scene of the battle until near the hour to commence firing.

Shortly before the game the corps of Cadets is to descend on the city from West Point and march to the Stadium for the military maneuvers which have made themselves a major part of big games in which the Army engages.

The Military Academy team is always a prime attraction here and in its only previous New York appearance this season, in the game with Notre Dame, it crammed the Yankee Stadium with a capacity crowd of 86,000. Tickets are even scarcer for today's game and officials in charge of the sale said last night that double the number available might be sold.

In popular interest the coming of the Stanford eleven, the first of the great California teams ever to appear on the Eastern seaboard, has an appeal all its own and by no means overshadowed by Knute Rockne's colorful Ramblers or the natty Midshipmen of the Naval Academy.

AVERAGE 189 POUNDS

The gigantic size of the Stanford team with its 232-pound tackle and 220-pound quarterback especially has caused a stir, the Californians' eleven regulars averaging the amazing weight of 189 pounds as compared with a little more than 182 for the Army.

Another factor in the Westerners' appeal to the imagination of the metropolitan public is the presence of the veteran Pop Warner as coach. In his 34 years of coaching in all parts of the country, Warner has gained a reputation that the East has never forgotten as a producer of the flashy and the unexpected. A coach who dramatizes his football teams.

The Stanford men have stood up well under the strain of a fast trip from the Coast. Spud Harder, a substitute end, and Church Smalling, sub quarterback, are the only ones afflicted with influenza and the latter has recovered sufficiently to play.

A goodly share of Stanford's hopes of victory rest upon its guards, Post and Robesky, the latter a married man and a father. Warner proclaims these two the best pair of guards he ever saw. The Cardinals' success in stopping the elusive Red Cagle, Army's all-America halfback candidate, also is expected to weigh heavily in the result.

Of the 22 men in the starting lineups 10 will be playing their final college football game. Six of the passing parade are Stanford men and four are Cadets. With this game the Cardinals will lose the services of Capt. Bige Hoffman, fullback; Sims and Wilton, halfbacks; Robesky and Post, and Sellman, left tackle. The Army men playing their last game are Capt. Bud Sprague, left tackle; Louis Hammack, left guard; Bill Hall, center, and Spike Nave, quarterback.

Both Warner and Biff Jones, Army head coach, predict a close score. Each team has lost one game to date, the Army to Notre Dame and Stanford to Southern California. The probable lineup:

DUNLEVY MEETS AKRON IN NATIONAL

TODAY'S GAMES.

NATIONAL CUP.

Akron Goodyears at Dunlevy (Charleroi).

DISTRICT LEAGUE.

Twin Boro at Union Switch.
Pittsburgh at Celtics.

BEAVER VALLEY LEAGUE.

New Brighton at Ambridge.
American Bridge at Harmony.

By TOM BIRKS

With the first inter-state game scheduled for today at Charleroi Park, soccer interest is naturally going to manifest itself up the Monongahela River, where Dunlevy, one of the greatest cup-fighting aggregations, will try and uphold Western Pennsylvania's only chance in the National Cup by warding off the goal-scoring ability of the Akron Goodyear outfit.

Dunlevy has a team of real cup fighters and there is reason to feel Akron is going to have a tough time lifting the cup battle.

According to the news, McFarlane is going to referee the game. Pittsburghers ought to get a kick out of that because when a Pittsburgh club makes a trip to Cleveland, it always gets an Ohio referee.

Is this significant that a local referee has not been assigned to the game, or cannot the local boys fill the bill? Dunlevy is going to have a tough time meeting expenses on a Saturday game without playing the traveling expenses of a referee from Ohio. Should Dunlevy win and then travel to Ohio in the next round, try and get a Western Pennsylvania referee.

All the fans who are able, however, should make the trip to Dunlevy and see a real game. There is a plenty of interesting soccer in both clubs' lineup to make it worth while.

as the logical contender for the lightweight championship crown of Sammy Mandell. He stepped into the pugilistic limelight last night by stopping Jimmy McLarnin in a bout here.

Pop Foster, manager of McLarnin, halted the bout between the seventh and eighth rounds. He threw in a towel into the ring, accepting a technical knockout for McLarnin.

McLarnin was bleeding badly from a cut under his right eye that was an inch and one-half long. He was punch-drunk and wobbly and no longer the Baby Face socker who had thrilled thousands of ring worms.

Miller, one of the best left-hook artists of this day, smashed a vicious left hook to McLarnin's jaw early in the first round and repeated an instant later. Another left hook cut McLarnin's right eye and he was reeling. Then McLarnin started fighting back, but was wild. A left hook to the liver had McLarnin on the verge of a knockout.

Miller worked cautiously in the second, but managed to take this round, too. McLarnin became the aggressor in the third. He outfought Miller in several vicious exchanges and won the round.

McLarnin continued to take the play away in the fourth and won the round. The fifth was a duplicate of the fourth, with McLarnin taking the lead on points.

In the sixth, Miller got his left hook working again and knocked McLarnin clear across the ropes. Miller kept on landing, and McLarnin, out on his feet, thought he had heard the gong and started for his corner. It was Miller's round.

Miller continued to lambaste McLarnin in the seventh and Foster and his seconds had to lead the Pacific Coast battler to his corner at the end of the round. Foster then tossed in the towel to end the slaughter.

RISKO IS BEATEN

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Fighting the greatest battle of his erratic career, Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, outslugged Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, for a close decision in 10 rounds here last night. Maloney carried seven rounds, some by a slight margin, and Risko led in three.

Maloney earned the decision by slowing Risko down with heavy body punishment until the eighth round, when the Cleveland baker made a savage attempt to win by a knockout.

them in their seven games. The Hawks, their opponents tonight, have yet to win. They have lost five games and tied one.

RIPLEY BRILLIANT

The Chicago star in the first Pirate-Hawks game was Vic Ripley, recruit center from the Canadian Pro League. Ripley's individual brilliance at skating and stick handling kept the Pirates on the offensive throughout much of the game, and, in later games, he showed so well that the veteran Duke Keats, purchased from Detroit at the start of this season, was sent to the minors this week and Ripley was given his regular center job. Bobby Burns, with Duluth until this year, also played well against the Pirates. Joe Miller robbing him of several apparently certain goals.

Ty Arbour, Chicago left wing, is a former Pirate, who left in the deal which brough Bert McCaffery here. Dick Irvin, Chicago captain, is one of the classiest skaters in the loop.

Although the Hawks are well down in the standing, there is nothing particularly wrong with their forward line. They have scored more goals than the Pirates, but their defense has been weak. Steps have been taken to correct this condition. The probable lineup for tonight:

| PITTSBURGH. | | CHICAGO. |

| McCaffery | D | Ainsworth |
| Holway | D | Hollinger |
| Wilkie | W | McKinnon |
| Ontrash | W | Irvin |

Spares: Pittsburgh—McCurry, McKinnon, White, Drury, Smith; Chicago—Couture, Arbour, Ripley.

CHESS SEASON NEXT ON PROGRAM

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

THE melancholy days indeed are here. If anyone doubts it, with the passing from the stage today of the football season, let him be assured by the bulletin that comes to this desk anent the warming up of the chess experts for their severe winter's siege.

We read in the dispatch, which comes by courier on horseback, that Paul L. Bowers, one of the most brilliant combination players in this part of the country, is girding his loins preparatory to making a serious bid to regain his Western Pennsylvania championship, which now reposes on the noble dome of one Howard L. Dolde. The annual tournament will get under way early next week and will end when it is finished, chess tournaments being run off that way.

The tournament will be played in the rooms of the Pittsburgh Chess Club, the Engineers' Society, the Y. M. & Y. W. H. A. and the Westinghouse Club. It appears that each player will have his own home grounds and will play both there and away, as they say in baseball, basketball, football and hockey circles. Among the veterans in the competition will be such well-known figures as the Messrs. Erdeky, Lappe, Isenberg, Ross, Opsahl, Maloy and Long, in addition to Bowers and Dolde, and there is talk also of a "dark horse," whose name is not revealed at this writing. Arrangements will be made to have the winner meet the Eastern Pennsylvania champion for the state title. It looks like a tough winter along the chess front. Chess?

JOHNNY DUNDEE "BROKE"

Johnny Dundee, veteran former featherweight and junior-lightweight champion, who recently started another of his comebacks by defeating Gaston Charles, of France, in impressive fashion, is to remain in the ring, unmindful of the advice of his friends, who insist on his forsaking the squared circle, and the word comes that the reason for his return is that he needs the money. At 35, poor business investments are said to have swept away the comfortable fortune he amassed over a long period of brilliant fighting against the best in several divisions. He is too proud to ask for alms and insists on earning his way. Tough, Johnny, tough. It's a hard world.

GRID FINALE TODAY

Army's powerful eleven, beaten only by Notre Dame, is favored to defeat Pop Warner's Stanford University team in the big intersectional battle which takes the place of the annual Army-Navy game at the Yankee Stadium, New York, today. The long trip across the country and the change of climate are expected to militate against the chances of the Californians. On the other hand, Norte Dame, as the representative of the Middle West, will enter its battle with Southern California at Los Angeles today the underdog. Southern California has not been beaten, has played a scoreless tie with California and downed Stanford, 10-6, while Notre Dame has lost three games, to Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Carnegie Tech, and plainly is not up to its usual standard.

Last year, the Irish defeated the Trojans, 7-6, with the aid of a disputed play at Chicago, in one of the biggest games of the year. The year before last, Notre Dame went to California after losing, 13-0, to Carnegie Tech here, and nosed out Southern California, 13 to 12, in the final minute of play. Back in 1924, the Notre Dame Four Horsemen galloped to a 27-19 victory over Stanford, in California, so that the Irish boast a record of three victories and no defeats against California teams.

Followers of Southern California, which is coached by Howard Jones, brother of Tad Jones, the former Yale mentor, contended that they should have won last year's game, 8-6, instead of losing, 7-6. The dispute centered around a goal line forward pass play which was ruled a touchback for Notre Dame instead of a safety, awaiting the Irish, the question of control of the ball being involved.

DATTO STOPS MARCELLS

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Johnny Datto, Filipino featherweight, of Cleveland, knocked out Mike Marcells, of Rochester, N. Y., in the third round here last night. It was a decidedly easy victory for Datto, who mercilessly toyed with his opponent in the first and second chapters.

PHILLIPS GETS DRAW

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Joe Colombo, Clarksburg, and Tug Phillips, Pittburgh, fought a 10-round draw here last night.

Billiard Winners To Cut Big Melon

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—When the ranking billiard players of the country match strokes here December 17 for the world's three-cushion and pocket billiard titles, they will be contesting for the largest purses ever offered in a billiard tournament. The National Billiard Association announced the prize list today.

This is the first time in the history of billiard tournaments that the winner of second place has received a salary.

Penn Turns Down New York U. Offer

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Ernest B. Cozens, graduate manager of the University of Pennsylvania football team, announced yesterday that Pennsylvania had declined the invitation of New York University to play a post-season football game in New York December 8.

STRIBLING WINS AGAIN

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, knocked out Ray Neuman, of Jersey City, in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

KAYOS FEATURE AMATEUR TILTS

Two knockouts featured the six all-star amateur boxing bouts held in Flynn's gym, Sixth street, last night. Some real fighting ensued.

Frank Novack of the North Side A. C. scored a knockout when he sent Billy Wade of Pittsburgh to the mat after two minutes and thirty-five seconds in the first round. Eddie Hebner of Clairton scored a technical knockout over Marty Gornik of the Duke O'Hara A. C. in the third round. Gornik threw the towel in the ring.

George (Slip) Lehr of the North Side won from Sharkey Leska of the Duke O'Hara A. C. in three rounds. Cowboy De Luca of the Willow A. C. won a fast three-round match from Robert McDowell of Lawrenceville.

The main bout was fast. George Chambers of the Willow Club won over Mike Koppin of the North Side A. C. After three rounds the judges disagreed, Chambers winning in the fourth round. Barney Powers of the Braddock Library A. C. and Eddie Branon of Flynn's gymnasium opened the show with three fast rounds.

The officials were: Announcer, Joseph Kline; referee, Billy Lewis; judges, L. K. Meininger, Chester A. Phillips; timer, Ray Willoughby.

Waynesburg to Play 10 Games Next Fall

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—As the 1928 football season at Waynesburg College has ended, Faculty Manager Prof. James Miller announces that he has the 1929 schedule almost ready to make public. The schedule for next year will contain 10 games. Prof. Miller also announces that four of these games will be played at home which gives the local fans more home games than the past two years. The schedule will contain four conference games. The time of the Duquesne game has been changed and it will be played earlier in the season and Westminster will take the date held this year by Duquesne. The Westminster game will be played in Waynesburg on Thanksgiving Day. Bethany and Geneva will be played on foreign fields.

The other games to appear on the schedule will be announced soon.

Trainer Banned As Horse Dies Of Poison

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—J. P. McAdams, trainer of the Mack Adam Stable, which raced at the Bowie meeting closing Friday, was ruled off the Maryland turf yesterday by action of the State Racing Commission.

Reports from Bowie about the horse Blind Cast, entered in a race there Monday, brought about the ruling against McAdams, who appeared before the entire board to plead his case.

Blind Cast, a 3-year-old gelding by Blind Baggage and Flycast, behaved so badly in the paddock that he was ordered withdrawn by the Bowie stewards, who instructed Dr. H. J. McCarthy, track veterinarian, to make an examination. Dr. McCarthy reported the horse had been stimulated and the stewards refused further entries of the stable had referred McAdams' case to the racing commission.

It was reported at Bowie the following day that Blind Cast died that night.

William Penn High Awarded Grid Title

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The William Penn High School eleven of this city was formally awarded the championship of the eastern division of the Central Pennsylvania Scholastic Football Conference at a meeting of representatives of the conference schools here last night. At the same time the game between William Penn and the western division champions was definitely arranged for Island Field here on December 8.

Officials of the western section will meet at Altoona Monday evening and are expected to formally award that title to Jersey Shore.

WILKINSBURG HIGH FETE

The Wilkinsburg High School football banquet will be held next Tuesday evening in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg.

HUSKER COACH MAY QUIT

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The University of Nebraska's football coach, Ernest E. Bearg, has been involved in reports that Nebraska's coaching staff may see changes next year.

Bearg's departure yesterday for Topeka, Kan., gave rise to belief that he had been offered the directorship of athletics at Washburn College, his alma mater. His contract with Nebraska will expire next September.

The names of Biff Jones, Army coach, and Dr. John Wilce, recently resigned coach of Ohio State, have been mentioned in connection with the Nebraska coaching situation. Athletic officials here have made no statements regarding any change.

Mizell, Ga., Tech Star, Has "Flu"

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Warner Mizell, Georgit Tech's candidate for all-America honors, is in a hospital suffering from influenza.

The clever but unobtrusive halfback of the Tornado was stricken early this week and collapsed on the sidelines at the Tech-Auburn game, which Tech won, 51 to 0.

His uncle, Dr. George Mizell, has announced he would not permit Mizell to enter the George Tech-Georgia game here on December 8 for fear the excitement might bring about a relapse that would keep him out of the Tech-California game in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

JESSUP NAMED CAPTAIN

SEATTLE, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A giant tackle, Paul Jessup, 6 feet 7 inches tall, will lead the University of Washington football eleven through the 1929 season. He was elected captain yesterday, while Chuck Carroll, outstanding and high scoring backfield ace, was voted the Fisherty medal for being of greatest inspiration to the team.

PLAYING PILOTS IN MAJORS NOT NUMEROUS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THAT colorful diamond athlete known as the "playing manager" will be almost as scarce next season as he was during the campaign of this year.

There is a good possibility of one National League pilot leading his players from the field, with a likelihood that two of the clubs of the Heydler circuit will take orders from a playing boss.

Billy Southworth, new director of the Redbirds issues an open challenge to George Harper and all others who aspire to the rightfield berth on the St. Louis team. In other words, Billy is a candidate for the pasture job, and he points to his achievements of this year as his best indorsement.

NOT YET 35

Southworth is not yet 35, and as he has always taken fine care of himself he should be considered seriously when he says he will be out to fill a berth on the team he directs. Billy is a natural hitter and a good fly-chaser. He hustles by intuition.

The other club that might sport a playing pilot is Brooklyn. Of course, this doesn't mean that Uncle Robbie is thinking of returning to the game. Robbie, you probably know, also is the president of the Brooklyn club. Not so long ago he recommended that Scoops Carey, former Pirate captain, be made the manager of the Flatbush outfit. The matter has not as yet been finally settled, but in the event of Carey rising to the managerial job it would be reasonable to think that Scoops would swing into action almost every day.

The other six clubs in the senior wheel will be run by bench pilots.

The American League may have one field performer in Bucky Harris, new chieftain of the Detroit Tigers. Walter Johnson, who succeeds the breaker boy in Washington threats to do some pitching, but even if he took his regular turn, Walter would be in action in less than 50 games.

The great pitcher apparently has regained his health. Being such a natural favorite in the American, Johnson will be called on by countless fans and it is altogether likely that he will go to the aid of his club early and often if his arm and health allow him to so extend himself.

HARRIS YOUNG

Harris is still a young man. In Detroit he will find a more effective second baseman, perhaps, in Charlie Gehringer, but Bucky still stands out as one of the best keystone tenders in his league, the bone of contention being that Gehringer is one of the slickest that has been in the circuit, for many, many years. And the youngster is a much better batter than his new boss. Be that as it may, the manager may find it advisable to make some sort of a switch that will get himself into personal contact with the enemy. And Bucky certainly likes to be in the thick of the fray.

GIRLS TO FORM NEW FLOOR LEAGUE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Their applications for membership in the Pioneer Girls' League apparently ignored, sponsors of girls' basketball teams in this vicinity have started a movement to organize a circuit to include sextets unable to get a berth in the Pioneer loop.

Disgusted with the treatment accorded them by the promoters of the Pioneer loop, the sponsors of the Goldenson Vanities, National Union Fire Insurance, Duquesne and other equally as good teams have arranged to hold a meeting next Monday night for the purpose of organizing a new circuit.

The meeting will be held in Room 5226, Jenkins Arcade, and judging by the number of teams interested there is a possibility of a six-club league being organized. The new circuit is open to all girls' teams playing first-class basketball. An invitation has been extended to all teams desiring to join the loop.

Three games tonight mark the opening of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League. Hill Top plays at Community, Y. M. H. A. at Heinz House and Kingsley House at East Liberty.

Duquesne Light will open its independent schedule tonight at the South Side Market House, meeting the well-known Monongahela Sterlings. Duquesne Light is entered in the Allegheny County League.

The roster of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League has been completed with the addition of the McKeesport Alumni Club. The eight teams in this loop are Greenfield Club, of McKees Rocks; Morry Cadets, of Braddock; Immaculate Heart, Alumni Club, Manganz, M. J. Conleys, Broadway Club and Jeannette Felders.

The Immaculate Heart team will open its P. & O. League season next Friday night when it clashes with the M. J. Conleys, of Munhall, on the Immaculate Heart floor.

LONG'S SPORT COMMENT

through nine games undefeated, the season's victories including decisions over Dartmouth, Penn and Nebraska. Another feature was a score of 109 points made against Lebanon Valley. In 1921, the Mt. Nittany lads played 10 games without being defeated, though held even by Harvard and Pitt. Among the teams beaten were Lehigh, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Navy and Washington. Bezdek's complete record for 11 years of coaching at State is 60 games won, 26 lost and 11 tied.

Herb Gardiner

LIKE baseball, hockey has few men who retired as active players while still good enough to hold down regular jobs in the fastest of major company. One of the few is Herb Gardiner, manager of the Chicago team of the National Professional League, who will direct the play of his Black Hawks against the Pirates at Duquesne Garden tonight. Gardiner was a regular defense man for Les Canadiens last season and ranked with the best in the league, but when the owners of the Chicago club obtained him from Les Canadiens to manage their outfit it was with the understanding that he would be a non-playing pilot.

SO HERB sits on the bench during each game played by his team, though several city blocks better than the men he has at his defense posts. His managerial job has not been an easy one, by any means, as he was required to build up almost an entire new sextet, starting by throwing out men who had outlived their usefulness and replacing them with younger performers.

It was slow work, necessarily, but Gardiner is gradually getting encouraging results and finds that his club, though it has not yet scored a victory, is improving from game to game. Recently it held the Boston Bruins, loop champions last season, to a 1-to-1 tie. In their first meeting this fall, at Chicago on November 20, the Pirates defeated the Hawks, 2 to 0.

THE football season that ends today, except for a few scattered games, has closely approached the record for fatalities. In only one previous year did a greater number of deaths due to gridiron injuries occur, that being 1925, when the total was 20.

This fall, no fewer than 19 players have died from injuries or overexertion, and in addition one spectator, Mrs. F. H. Rogers, of Mineral Wells, Tex., succumbed to a heart attack while cheering for a high school team during a game. Of the 19 playing fatalities only three involved college players, these being Miles Cox, of the Navy; James Fenton, of Holy Cross, and Leo Goodreau, of Villanova. All the other victims were high school or sandlot players.

Frank Frisch

THE complete list of the year's football deaths follows: August 31, Miles F. Fox, U. S. Naval Academy; September 12, James Fenton, Holy Cross; September 16, Norman Matthews, Ballardsville (Mass.) High School; September 26, John Coffield, Allentown (Pa.) High School; September 29, Ross Taylor, Hiram (O.) High School; October 2, Leo Goodreau, Villanova; October 4, William Young, Monongahela (Pa.) National Guardsman; October 9, Donald Orrahood, Sutton (W. Va.) High School; October 10, LeRoy Passey, Jr., Brigham Young (Utah) High School; October 22, John Radoohovich, Turtle Creek (Pa.) independent player; October 23, Leonce Chauvin, St. Paul (Minn.) College; October 28, Therwin Kelly, New Haven (Conn.) Gymnastic School; November 5, Joseph Chasnoff, Hollywood (Cal.) High School; November 5, Anthony Gregorich, La Salle (Ill.) High School; November 6, Virgil L. Gallagher, Fortuna (Cal.) High School; November 12, Charles Dardi, Logan (W. Va.) High School; November 12, Coakley Higgins, Wyndmoor (Pa.) independent player; November 19, Mark Carey, Follansbee (W. Va.) High School; November 29; Ray Shinners, Milwaukee (Wis.) Normal.

THE baseball fakers are at it again. The latest contribution to the crop of off-season fiction is a yarn from St. Louis to the effect that the bosses of the Pirates and the Cardinals and one other club recently opened negotiations for a three-cornered trade in which the Redbirds agreed to swap Second Baseman Frank Frisch and Catcher Jimmy Wilson.

Of course, it's just another dream. Any manager would jump at a chance to get either Frisch or Wilson, but though the St. Louis owners sometimes drop pennant-winning managers it is safe to say that the price they would put on such men as Frisch and Wilson, two of the most valuable players in baseball, would be too high for any other club to pay. Branch Rickey ridiculed the report when asked about it, and at Pirate headquarters officials of the local club said that, far from being actually involved in any such deal, they had never heard even the rumor.

NEBRASKA appears to be the jinx of Coach Chick Meehan and New York University in football. In both 1926 and 1927, Meehan's Violet machine went through the season undefeated until the very last game, only to be beaten by the Cornhuskers on each occasion, first by a score of 27 to 18 and the second time by a count of 15 to 7.

The connection between those happenings and the smashing of N. Y. U.'s championship hopes by the Oregon Aggies on Thanksgving Day lies in the fact that the coach of the Aggies is Paul J. Schissler, who learned his football at Nebraska.

Tom Thorp

SPEAKING of Meehan and N. Y. U., Gotham dopesters are drawing comparisons between the record of Meehan and that of Tom Thorp, who preceded him as coach of the Violet. While it is admitted that Meehan has put the university on the football map in large letters whereas the team remained in comparative obscurity under Thorp's regime, it is pointed out that Meehan has had immeasurably better material to work with than ever was at Thorp's command. Thorp's candidates were mainly New York City boys and some of them were not overly courageous, judging from the following told by Thorp himself: "Once I noticed that a certain man in my backfield was seldom given the ball. Being interested, I inquired of my quarterback about it. He hesitated a bit and then confessed that the man in question had asked him not to give him the ball. Imagine trying to turn out a winner with a bunch like that."

GEORGETOWN'S coach, Lou Little, who recently displayed rare sportsmanship by stating that in spite of his team's victory over New York University the latter was the better eleven and had deserved to win the game, gives Carnegie Tech and N. Y. U. two places apiece on his all-America eleven.

IRISH ON COAST

and physically for the battle, neither holds a visible advantage.

Into the huge concrete coliseum some 80,000 fans will crowd their way. The bowl was sold out long ago for the tussle.

In place of Morton Kaer and Morley Drury, the power of the 1926 and 1927 Trojan squads, is Don Williams, dynamic 158-pound quarterback of all-America ability. The brunt of the attack will be borne by the Trojan Thunderbolt, able in all departments of the game. Backing up Williams is a trio of backfield performers of outstanding offensive and defensive ability—Russ Saunders, Lloyd Thomas and Harry Edelson.

NIEMIEC TO START

Rockne's regulars are surrounded with equal brilliance and the sage of South Bend has Jack Chevigny, Johnny Niemiec, Fred Collins and 140-pound Jack Brady among his best. Niemiec will start the game, although he has been suffering from an injured neck, sustained in a head-on collision with Karcis, Carnegie Tech fullback. The triple threat halfback, who passes with unerring skill and runs the ends like a streak, will be closely watched, for it was he who caught the breath-taking pass from Art Parisien that gave the Ramblers victory over the Trojans here two years ago.

The Irish will remain at a hotel until game time. As to his prospects for the game, Rockne erected a screen of pessimism in replying to interviewers. He would have them believe that the Trojans are sure to win, but it was recalled that he staged a similar entry here in 1926. Coach Jones, after sending his charges through a light signal drill as a means of tapering off two weeks of hard training, said:

"Notre Dame is one of the smartest teams in the country and my boys will have to play smart football to beat the Rocknemen."

The probable lineup:

| Costello | L | McCluskey |
| Toomey | L.T. | (C.) Hobbs |
| Law | L.G. | Stonerock |

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE telephone company did quite a business on the day the North Side "rum" cases ended in Federal Court, with the accused being acquitted. Practically everyone of the indicted men made a wild dash to the nearest telephone to convey the news that they were free. After the telephoning there were small gatherings of celebrants, all happy that they escaped a much-dreaded trip to Atlanta.

Some of the stalwarts mixed up in that ordeal made light of talk of an adverse verdict, but there were quite a few who aged a little as they contemplated the worst that might happen.

IT IS a tribute to two of the government counsel, Ralph Smith and Joe Richardson, to hear begrudging admiration for them from some of the lately accused.

When Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who is in our midst, to coin a phrase, had some title or other she called up the most exclusive hair-dresser in New York to make an appointment. "This is Countess ——," said Peggy, "and I want an appointment." The hair-dresser was very sorry, but his book was full for the next four weeks. Then dropping the countess part Miss Joyce said: "My other name is Peggy Hopkins Joyce," and the hair-dresser replied: "Tomorrow at 2." With this in mind perhaps the next husband of the actress will be forced to go under the name of Mr. Peggy Hopkins Joyce.

JOHN MORRISON, of Greenville, who was the first man in America to recall the passing of the wooden Indian, will be interested, perhaps, in learning that J. A. Russell, of Dormont, reports there is a cast iron Indian in a small town in Venango County known as Sugar Creek. It is in front of a private dwelling, sometime removed from in front of a tobacco shop destroyed by fire. The Indian is more than 60 years old. It is fastened in a concrete base, this stratagen having been devised to frustrate prankish boys who used to try to make the cast iron Indian bite the dust by pushing it over. Mr. Russell was so interested in the account here of Mr. Morrison's search that he stopped his automobile in Sugar Creek and obtained a history of the Indian for the exclusive use of Sidewalks.

One of the busiest offices in town is that of Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh. A mixture of policemen, taxpayers, (men and women) keep alert attendants busy ushering them in and out of the expansive room occupied by "the chief." All sorts of complaints drift into the superintendent's office and none seem too small to get attention from the man in direct charge of seven inspectors, six captains, 47 district lieutenants, 46 sergeants, 46 detectives, 29 precinct detectives, 590 patrolmen, 211 cornermen, 66 wagonmen, 40 motorcycle men, 24 mounted men, 14 turnkeys, two detective lieutenants, 17 matrons, four Bertillon operators, four cops on the dog-wagons and 125 sub-patrolmen.

Most of these men at one time or another must see "the chief" besides the large number of citizens who have pressing matters. In the midst of all this "the super" manages to be attentive and courteous.

CLAIMS HURT BY TRICK, SUES

Claiming that he was asked to be a helper against his will and later was hurt as a result of the trick played on him, Hyman Elias has brought suit against Ruben Benkovitz, who owns a live fish market at 1810 Center avenue, for $25,000 for personal injuries.

A collision with another automobile was narrowly averted and in endeavoring to keep from striking it, the Berkovitz truck crashed into a telegraph pole. Elias was thrown against the windshield and injured and cut about the body.

POLICEMAN HIT BY AUTO

Edward O'Neil, 55, of 214 Beech street, East Pittsburgh, acting desk sergeant of the East Pittsburgh Police Department, was cut and bruised when he was struck by an automobile Friday at Cable and Linden streets, East Pittsburgh. The driver of the machine, Farrell Woods, 614 Lennox avenue, Forrest Hills, took the officer to his home after an examination by a physician revealed that O'Neal was not seriously hurt.

Hold Funeral for Catherine Schmidt

Funeral services will be held today for Mrs. Catherine Schmidt, 89, who died Thursday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Schroeder, of 722 Whitney avenue, Wilkinsburg. Born in Germany, Mrs. Schmidt came to the United States when 4 years old. She resided in Pittsburgh virtually after coming to this country until 1859 when she moved to Chambersburg. She returned to this section two years ago. She leaves five sons and five daughters.

Sister Is Named Executor in Will

Harry McRoberts, of North Braddock, left an estate valued at $9,500 to his sister, Helen McRoberts, named executor.

Annie B. Keeney, Thirteenth Ward, left her $8,000 estate to five children and named her son-in-law, Alva C. Wise, and her daughter, Sara Wise, executors.

Petition Council to Widen Bates Street

Council has received an ordinance authorizing the widening of Bates street to 120 feet between Coltart avenue and Zulema street to Boquet street. The measure also proposes changing the name of that section of the thoroughfare to the Boulevard of the Allies.

Passionist Order Will Hold Retreat

The Passionist order will hold a retreat for members of the Holy Name Society, of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Liberty avenue, from December 6 to December 9. There will be morning and evening services.

Wilkinsburg Bank Mails Out Checks

Approximately $100,000 will be distributed to 1,600 members of the Christmas savings club of the Central National Bank, of Wilkinsburg. Checks for the various amounts will be mailed December 4.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 1.

Well, Mr. Coolidge went down South in old Virginia and spent Thanksgiving, but you notice he didn't go there till after it had gone Republican. He used to spend his Thanksgiving in Massachusetts, but not lately.

With all our boasted prosperity, I don't see that we are any better off. The old turkey hash showed up as usual yesterday and will be with us the next few days, just the same as it did when we was poor.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

P. S. I am warning you now that if something is not done to prevent it Congress is going to meet right away, so come on good patriots and help protect your country.

Madge Goes to Frances for Advice on Procuring A Position

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, young and pretty, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday resenting the dingy New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. Madge craves thrills and unexpectedly finds one when she attends a party given by her friend, Frances Storrs. It is in the person of Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Carroll is impressed with Madge's youthful beauty and tells her he had been waiting to meet her all his life. Meanwhile the party becomes wilder and Carroll and Madge retire to a balcony, escaping the heightening orgy. Carroll offers to drive Madge to his place on Long Island, proposing an airplane ride for a thrill. Leaving the party they stop at Madge's house when a taxi pulls up. Friends are lifting out the almost unconscious Mr. Sayre, a victim of alcohol. A week later Madge dines with Carroll at his luxurious studio apartment. After dinner they drive out to Long Island and Madge has her first thrill in an airplane when the engine stalls in mid-air and plunges toward the earth.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"YOU can't do it alone," he warned her. "A thrill is a game, and for that you need a partner. But I can furnish thrills, little Madge." He broke off, as one of the mechanics greeted him.

"You had us all scared, Mr. Dudley," he grinned. "First, I thought you had shut her off—and then—"

Carroll interrupted him with curses, oblivious of Madge's presence.

"What do I pay you for?" he continued furiously. "Dirt in the gas—and don't argue about it, you moron fool. One little speck caused by your carelessness and I might have killed this lady, to say nothing of myself. You overhaul the ship. In future when I 'phone that I am coming out, I expect you to have taken care of a little detail like the feed pipe. I'm a little fussy, you know, you long-legged, split-faced baboon! Get it, and get it good! Yours is the one job where you have to look after detail, and where one mistake is fatal. Don't let me ever have to speak to you again."

He strode angrily away, and realizing the seriousness of what might have been, Madge could not blame him in her heart for his anger. All the same, somehow, Carroll would have seemed finer in her eyes if he had continued to hold perfect command of his nerves.

As they drove away from the field, Madge noticed that the clock on the dashboard of the car showed midnight. She sat back, relaxed, enjoying the swift ride through the soft night air.

"You will have to come back to my place to change your clothes," Carroll suggested carelessly.

"Or to pick up my frock, anyway," she agreed.

"Did you really enjoy yourself, or were you bluffing, Ecstasy?" He glanced quickly at her and smiled as he noted her rapt expression.

"I don't think I ever bluff," she answered sedately.

"Then what about posing for me?" He took up the question with elaborate indifference in his voice. "I'm certain I could do something awfully nice of you."

"But what's that got to do with whether I bluff or whether I don't?" she asked pertinently.

"Because experience has taught me," he replied, "that bluff and prudery go hand in hand."

Madge was silent for a moment.

"I am not going to tell you at once," she decided. "I have to come to your studio in the daylight and see what you can do. After all, it is going to be me, isn't it?"

Carroll laughed. "This is excellent for my ego," he said. "And if you like what I do, then you will agree to pose for me?"

"On certain conditions," Madge answered gravely.

"Which are?"

"Oh,—that I am in the mood."

"Capricious one! You're adorable!"

"And that you give me your word of honor that you won't show the canvas to anyone."

"Gladly!" he promised instantly. "Though it be selfish to hide such beauty from the world at large, it will be a secret bond between you and me. I will have it framed very marvelously, with doors on the frame, and those doors shall never be opened except when I am alone, when I will sit and admire and wonder that such loveliness can exist. You, too, shall come and admire."

"Well, we'll see." She dismissed it.

"I have a rich old walrus from Pittsburgh posing for me tomorrow morning," Carroll told her. "The portrait is a surprise for her husband. I should think it would surprise any husband, even though I am suppressing as much of her weight as I can decently get away with, and her pearls will be lovely. But she will be gone by 12. Why don't you come and have lunch with me and view my work?"

"I'd love to," she accepted blithely.

Presently they were back at the studio.

"I feel so strange in these clothes, and they are so hot. I will change," Madge remarked as Hardy let them into the apartment.

A little later, she was once more clad in her frocks of black. Carroll drove very slowly downtown, and when he left her at her door, he raised her hand to his lips and lightly kissed her finger-tips.

"Don't forget that you are lunching at the studio," he reminded her.

"I'll be there," she promised. "And thank you, Carroll, for such a thrill tonight. I shall never forget my first ride through the sky!" She ran up the steps and disappeared.

Madge had not expected to sleep for a long time, but the excitement of that first air ride had tired her, and though her last thought was of Carroll, she was asleep almost as soon as her head touched the pillow, and dreamed of sailing through space with him in a curious automobile that had red feathered wings.

She was awakened by the postman, who had a special delivery letter for her. It was from her father to tell her he was dispirited because the schemes for raising capital for his new safety-razor had fallen through. This was no surprise for Madge, because experience had taught her never to take her father's financial dreams too seriously. The letter, however, did bring home to her the realization of what she had often pondered: It was, she reflected over her morning coffee, more or less imperative that she make some decision as to her future.

With this in mind, she called that morning at the office of the advertising firm that employed Frances Storr. She found her friend in a small private office, busy with some copy that should extol the virtues of a new lipstick.

Frances regarded Madge absently.

"What's on your mind?" she asked.

"Father." Madge explained. "Something has to be done. I mean—I ought to do something. What sort of a job should I look for."

Frances grinned. "This sort of job: wake when a French maid brings coffee and letters to your shell-like couch at 10. Take two hours to dress, and then drive for a fitting at your modiste in twenty-two thousand dollars worth of imported car. Lunch at—"

"Oh, be yourself, Frances!" Madge reproved her. "What sort of a job would pay me a living wage?"

"The job I'm telling you," Frances persisted. "You look pretty enough to eat, Madge, and your job is to find a husband whose right hand gets tired clipping coupons."

"How do I meet him?" Madge smiled a little ruefully. "I never meet any millionaires, but feeling as blue as I do this morning, I half-believed I'd marry one if I could."

"That sort of thing just happens," Frances declared.

"But look at you!" Madge protested. "You make a perfectly good income that would make a lot of men envious."

Frances laughed a little cynically. "Sure, they pay me more than several men in this office," she said shortly. "But what I have to sell is inside," and she tapped her forehead with the stem of her pipe. "I'd be out of luck, now, wouldn't I, if I tried to make my face my fortune?"

"But you are independent of men," Madge continued.

"And you wouldn't be if you could," Frances answered grimly. "Know what Schopenhauer said about women? The old grouch was right at that! He said that if a woman found herself in the unnatural position of being independent, she would instantly take to herself a master—if young, a lover, if old, a priest! You don't want independence, Madge my child. All you want is a man, and don't kid yourself. The point is—which particular man."

"What," asked Madge suddenly, "do you know about Carroll Dudley?"

Frances laughed good-naturedly. "So that's the way the wind blows? I might have guessed it was all bluff, your asking about jobs, Carroll? I haven't known him long, but, as I told you, he's a celebrity. I don't have to know him to tell you to watch your step, Madge. It would take a pretty clever girl to rope and tie him. And if you do marry him, will you be clever enough to hold him? Has he asked you to marry him?"

"N-not exactly," Madge confided. "But," and here she laughed with all confidence her beauty gave her, "I think he might be educated to it!"

SIGNS OF CHILL!

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack

ALL the signs point to a remarkably cold Winter. Weather prophets are showing us daily that the weather is soon to be freezing and everyone is preparing to keep nice and warm throughout the cold spell. All but these two hearts that have frozen solid, and poor Dan Cupid is nearly frantic.

Just when he thought everything was going so beautifully in this particular love game, along came a frost and nipped the budding romance. What shall he do?

True, it all started through a silly quarrel, then both of them got stubborn and refused to give in first and now what's going to happen? It's going to be cold and long—this coming Winter and whatever will they do when they have the long nights to think things over? Will the chill thraw out under the glow of the dancing fire flames? Or is it so frozen fast that nothing will penetrate?

Oh, if they'd only not be so foolish! Can't they see they are wrecking their happiness by acting so childishly? It's going to be the longest, coldest Winter they ever experienced, for they will so miss the dear one.

Oh, well, perhaps Spring will bring them to their senses. Or, maybe, when they see how bleak and long the days are without each other, they'll relent and say in one breath, "Oh, I'm so sorry! I was in the wrong!" "No, it was all MY fault!" And then everything will be forgotten in the joy of love renewed. Well, here's hoping!

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Use Common Sense in Clothing Infant

TREAT your baby as if it were a human being and not as if it were a casket of jewels. It is just as dear to you, more so indeed, than all the precious jewels ever discovered.

DR. COPELAND

But that gives you no license to wrap it up in many coverings, as if you were afraid of losing it. Many and many and many a baby has cried and fretted and suffered because it has been too hot. The fearful parent is worried for fear the little thing may "take cold." To escape this danger, mistaken efforts have been made to pile on clothing till the baby nearly melts.

Did you ever sleep in a Pullman car, with steam turned on full-tilt, windows tightly closed, curtains drawn, thick blankets over you and the wrath of the infernal regions in your soul? I have, all too many times. Why don't they improve those cars?

If you have had this experience, you probably know how a baby feels when swathed in endless wrappings, dressed in thick clothing and covered with a "cute" elderdown coverlet. You were miserable in the ancient conditions of the Pullman. The baby is miserable in its unnecessary, and indeed harmful, coverings. Grown-ups should dress according to the thermometer and the state of the weather. A baby should be dressed with the same care.

You may pamper an infant, making it no stronger and resistant than a hot-house plant. The surest way to accomplish this is by overdressing. The child perspires. The skin becomes red and irritated, heat rashes break out and the painful body surfaces adds that much more to the misery.

An awful lot of common sense must be exercised by the young mother. Of course, she will listen to all the advice offered by her mother and the neighbors. But after all have had their say, my advice is to think it out for yourself.

A little careful experimenting will show that a baby rejoices in light, loose clothing. Freedom of its limbs, freedom to kick and sprawl and crawl, freedom from heat and weight—all these add vigor and health.

The wonderful thing about mothers is that they can and do think. I am sure I have said enough today to set you to pondering this matter. If you reach the same conclusion I have and if we are right, your baby will prosper a heap more by being kept comfortable.

You and I could not endure such weight and heat of dress as many mothers force on their helpless offspring. Think it over and see if you do not agree. If you were to follow these suggestions your baby would give you a gold medal if it had the power.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Light That Lies in Lovers' Eyes

GO TO, my Daughter. Wherefore shall a man torment a woman with the cold and bitter truth, when a little fib will cheer her spirit and solace her vanity?

For, lo, there be seven graceful ways to deceive a woman, and every one of them is amateur-proof!

Behold, there is the way of the diplomat, who talketh in the abstract and wooeth every damsel in vague hints, sweet implications and subtle gestures, but leaveth always a drawbridge over which to retreat.

HELEN ROWLAND

And there is the way of the telephone liar, who cheerfully maketh a thousand promises while he is in a woman's presence, but retracteth all his words with graceful excuses when he reacheth the first telephone booth.

And there is the way of the platonic friend, who admireth a damsel for her mental charms, praiseth her wit and doeth the "bluff and hearty," but whose chumminess is but a smoke screen, and whose heart-to-heart talks end always in lip-to-lip silences.

And there is the way of the Tired Business Man, who straineth not his imagination, but leaveth all his alibis to his stenographer. For with a few miles of wire between them and a brave woman to defend him, he feareth NO damsel's "comeback."

And there is the way of the caveman, whose motto is "Tell them nothing!" Who lieth boldly and without scruple when it suiteth his pleasure, saying "That which she doth not know, will not worry ME!"

And there is the way of the woman-tamer, who "saith it" with flowers and glances and kisses, but never with words, and keepeth a damsel always hoping—and guessing.

And there is the way of the perfect Ananias, who lieth for the pure love of lying—and always artistically. For he rejoiceth more to tell a beautiful lie than to tell the simple truth, even when the latter would better serve his purpose.

Verily, verily, there are but two brands of liars—the plain and the fancy. But, of the fancy liars, there are a hundred varieties, and all of them are standardized.

Wherefore, then, oh my Daughter, need any man shatter a woman's vanity by offering her the plain, unseasoned truth?

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds prospects of favor and benefits for and through ecclesiastical matters and clergymen and those in authority and inclines the emotional nature to mystical expression either in devotion, music or poetry of a high or inspirational order. Benefits from elderly persons and institutions are shown; and labor, industry and fidelity should be rewarded substantially. Small misadventures are possible.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a year of many benefits, with substantial returns for hard labor, diligence and steadfastness as well as for laudable ambitions, which are promised fruition despite some small anxieties.

A child born on this day may have many excellent traits insuring its popularity and substantial advancement and position, earned by application, dependability and ambition.

Monday, December 3

MONDAY'S astrological chart shows many propitious situations, with much planetary assistance to growth, expansion and fulfilled ambitions. At the same time there is seen the menace of subtlety, fraud or misrepresentation as well as slander and duplicity, unless extreme wariness be exercised to forefend these. An alert mind may prevent these sinister operations from being effective.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a splendid year of growth, increase of wealth, power and prestige, with the goal in sight for high aims, but there must be extreme precaution against fraud, duplicity and slander.

A child born on this day may be versatile, ingenious and original and independent in thought, as well as ambitious and progressive, but it may mar its record by furtive or unprincipled measures unless it be well reared in infancy.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Perfectly Proper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

About a month ago my married sister and I went to see a girl friend who was staying at her mother's house after an illness. While there I met this girl's brother for the first time, and since then I have not seen him.

I would like to know if it would be proper and correct to send him an invitation to a party we are going to have next month, and if so, in what way can I express myself without seeming forward?

Please give me your advice about this and relieve me of my doubt. F. I. M.

IT would be perfectly proper and most hospitable and friendly for you to invite this young man to the party. You met him in a very pleasant way, in excellent form, and you are extending to him the hospitality of your home at a party chaperoned by your mother and other members of your family. Every element of good form is here. Instead of telephoning to the young man to ask him to the party, write him a note. This is much better form, for it gives the guest an opportunity to consider the invitation and if he accepts the invitation by note then you know that he wants to come. Say something like this:

"Dear Mr. North:

"We are having a party at our home on Thursday, the twentieth of December, and my mother and I would be very happy if you can be one of our guests. Are you free on that evening, and will you come? It is to be just an informal gathering of our friends, and we should like to have them know you and have you know them. Will you come in about 8 o'clock?

"With friendly greetings to you, I am MADELINE BLEICK."

Send Best Wishes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My employer sent me an announcement of the marriage of his daughter. I have never met his daughter. Will you kindly tell me the proper way to acknowledge this announcement? D. F.

SUCH a formal announcement does not require an acknowledgment; that is, it is not necessary for you to make any special acknowledgment to the daughter of your employer. However, it would be natural for you to thank your employer for his courtesy in sending you an announcement. You might ask him to convey, too, your best wishes to the bride.

Cleaning Stove

When fires are not required, a stove is apt to get very dull-looking. Clean with a good stove polish, then rub over with furniture polish. The stove will only need dusting to keep quite bright.

Madge Yields Household Reins to Mother-in-Law

MY father's face did not change its expression of courteous acquiescence of my mother-in-law's plans, as she volubly outlined them to me. Indeed, she had no sooner finished her complacent little dictum concerning her "keeping her eye on things" during my absence than he bolstered her comment with one of his own.

"It surely is most fortunate for me that Madam Graham is in such good health and spirits," he said. "I shall be extremely busy in my own rooms this winter except when I get out for necessary exercise, and it will be pleasant for one of my indolence to know that I shall have no dom-estic problems. I shall be only too glad to turn the household reins over to Madam Graham and Mrs. Bickett."

"Mrs. Bickett will have all she can do attending to Richard Second under my directions," my mother-in-law said tartly. "She won't have any time for 'household reins'."

My father bowed with imperturbable good humor.

"That, of course, is something which must be settled between you two ladies," he said. "I have but one stipulation to make for the winter. That is that I be treated as a guest with no responsibility whatever, except for the financial end, and whatever protection a masculine member of the household may give."

"You won't be bothered by any appeals from me," my mother-in-law said. Then she rose majestically.

"I think I'll lie down as long as Richard Second is asleep," she said. "That is, if you'll be sure to stay with him, Margaret, until Mrs. Bicketts gets back."

Her tone intimated that she was exceedingly doubtful about leaving her grandchild to such irresponsible care as that of his mother. But I knew from long experience that her direction was a ritual, born of her inability to realize that anyone save herself was at the helm of the domestic boat, and I gave her a smile instead of a frown with which I would have greeted such an intimation from any other lips.

"I shan't leave him," I promised, and then my father escorted her to the upper hall with impressive dignity. Upon his return he put his hand on my shoulder with comprehending tenderness.

"I am proud of you, darling!" he said. "Your tact—and—restraint are admirable."

"It isn't as hard for me as you think," I told him honestly. "Poor Mother Graham simply has the weight of the world on her shoulders all the time. She feels that she is directly responsible for every tiniest detail in the household management."

My father's smile was a bit dubious.

"I can imagine that the winter may be almost as exciting and interesting as if I were actively in service," he said. "But I think we can trust Mrs. Bickett to manage both your mother-in-law and our only Katie, without either of them suspecting the fact."

"I know we can," I assured him, tossing a sympathetic and guilty sigh at my absent little kinswoman. Then I clutched at his arm, with the feeling that his reference to his work had given me an opportunity to voice the request I had wanted to make ever since the day that the cringing Sergius, so nearly the killer of Harry Underwood, had been secretly rushed away from the farmhouse in Philip Veritzen's car with Allen Drake his implacable jailer.

"Please don't ever talk about 'active service' again," I implored him. "Don't you think you've earned a rest, too, as well as Mr. Underwood? I feel as if I couldn't stand it to have you go away on any more of those dangerous, mysterious journeys."

BUDGET SLASHING DELAYS FIXING CITY TAX RATE

COUNCIL SEEKS TO REDUCE TOTALS

Council, today, is awaiting requested information before making revisions of the city's estimated expenditures for 1929 totalling $35,844,300 as presented by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

That total is $755,000 in excess of the estimated revenues for next year on the basis of the present tax levy of 25 mills on land and 12.5 mills on buildings.

While members of Council are confident the excess will be eliminated, none would second W. Y. English's motion at a budget session yesterday to fix the millage at the existing rate.

English said his object was to fix the levy at once and cut appropriations to fit the estimated revenues so that assessors could complete their books and allow the treasurer to begin tax collections by January 1.

President James F. Malone, however, pointed out that a careful study of the budget might enable Council to reduce the tax rate. On the other hand, he said, if revenues for December fall off from present estimates, larger reductions in appropriations would have to be made to avoid a tax increase.

Herder to aid in a study of the budget, Malone successfully moved that the controller submit a detailed report of all substantial increases and decreases in appropriations requests.

JOBS IN BALANCE

Under another motion, H. S. Breitenstein, Mayor's statistician, was requested to furnish a complete list of new positions requested in the pending budget and whether there were any change in titles that might eliminate certain jobs.

Breitenstein was also asked to report when hearings are resumed any appropriations that can be cut on the basis of this year's expenditures.

Malone offered three motions designed to furnish revenue to the city through the sale or rent of obsolete buildings.

One measure requests a valuation from the city assessors and the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board on No. 8 Fire Engine House, No. 6 Police Station, Frankstown Avenue, and Hamilton Avenue and No. 15 Fire Engine House, Penn avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

A second motion requested the Department of Public Works and the Safety Department to advise Council of any unused buildings that might be offered for sale.

A third motion requests the Bureau of City Property to submit an estimate of the cost of placing "For Sale" signs on buildings that might profitably be sold.

BRIDGE SALE UP

Malone called upon the Controller to report on the progress of the Pittsburgh Plan for placing practically all city accounting divisions under the Controller's immediate supervision.

Daniel Winters was requested by Malone to renew negotiations with the County Commissioners for the sale of the City-owned Smithfield Street, Manchester and Twenty-second Street bridges to the county.

P. J. McArdle led a discussion of the increasing costs of carrying interests and charges on bond issues and developed that debt service now costs about $6,000,000, or nearly 25 per cent of the annual appropriations.

Council yesterday received ordinances omitting amounts, authorizing the tax on property, the water rates and the 1929 appropriation bill. Figures will be inserted at the conclusion of budget sessions.

"Trimming" Two Ways Seemed Easy Here

Business was "too good" in a barber shop at 6424 Frankstown avenue. Precinct detectives, attracted by the large number of persons entering and leaving the place, investigated and found a lottery headquarters operating, they testified in Frankstown Avenue Police Court today. James Smith, 210 St. Andrews street; William Harris, 6424 Frankstown avenue, and Gasey Posey, 6501 Shetland avenue, all Negroes, were held for court by Magistrate William J. Soost, charged with managing and maintaining a lottery. Joseph Brown, Negro, 1943 San Juan street, Penn township, also arrested in the raid, was discharged after he proved he had no connection with the racket.

MANY MEN HAVE CONSTANT COUGH

Caused by Catarrhal, Asthma or Bronchial Trouble and Smoking.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY SOON STOPS THE COUGH

Some men can smoke constantly and never cough, but let them catch a deep-seated cold and get a touch of Catarrhal, Bronchial or asthmatic trouble in their throat, Bronchial tubes or lungs and they are bound to have an awful cough. Their system has difficulty throwing it off, and in time they weaken and are apt to fall easy victim to respiratory lung diseases, pneumonia, fever or grippe.

NEED REAL REMEDY

Such coughs in themselves aren't dangerous or alarming, and any man may easily rid himself of such troubles and at the same time fortify, strengthen and build up his system so nature will be impervious to future attacks. It merely depends on how long it has clung to him how long it will take to throw it off.

A couple large bottles of Lin-O-Nine, a nice tasting, creamy white mixture of Flaxseed Oil, Cassia, Eucalyptus, Betula, Irish Moss and Glycerine does the trick. It is nice to take, soothes the membrane lining almost instantly; checks the cough and rapidly assists nature in the work of throwing off the catarrhal, bronchial or asthmatic symptoms.

Lin-O-Nine is more thorough and faster working than nasty, nauseating Cod Liver Oil, which is about the only other real remedy for such troubles.

Lin-O-Nine is made of finest ingredients and guaranteed by the long established, nationally known Kerr Chemical Corp. Doctors, specialists and thousands of users endorse it. Local druggists are featuring Lin-O-Nine. At this time of year grave dangers lurk in coughs and colds. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

DRUGGISTS DECLARE PILE REMEDY WORKS WONDERS

Piles and Hemorrhoids Are Relieved Quick by Simple Method.

ONE DRUGGIST SAYS REMEDY CURED HIM

"I'm a druggist myself, and when I say this new internal way of getting rid of Piles is best, I know, for I suffered myself for twelve years, and during that time tried everything on the shelf," declares Robert Higgins, Ph. G.

"One of the clerks in the store told me how wonderfully these Colac Pile Pills had helped his wife, so I took a bottle home because I was suffering terribly at that time, and I want to say they are the finest remedy for this painful affliction I ever heard of, and I often recommend them to customers," continued Mr. Higgins, Druggist in Corinth, N. Y. Local Druggists here are featuring Colac Pile Pills. Thousands of tests prove this new internal treatment most effective for real and lasting results.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

A famous chemist asked himself one day: Why can't I coat a pill with a substance impervious to gastric juices so it will pass through the stomach into the bowels and then dissolve and release a combination of healing, soothing herbs that reach the real seat of all the trouble—remove the cause—and permanently banish piles and hemorrhoids? Colac Pile Pills are the final result of his research, and it certainly is nice to know that at last, no matter how long or severely one has suffered, they can forget nasty salves, suppositories, etc., and enjoy the benefits of this simple, harmless, scientific method. Even delicate old men and women troubled with piles, sit, walk and sleep in comfort without pain in a few hours in many instances and report complete relief in a few days. Colac Pile Pills are made in the world's largest laboratory of finest ingredients. Several local druggists offer to gladly refund the 70 cents a regular bottle costs if they fail to relieve completely, even the worst or chronic case. Certainly no one, young or old, should suffer another day. Just a couple tablets with swallow of water at meal time for a few days. If your own drug store hasn't Colac Pile Pills, send 70c to Colac Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md., with name and address for full size bottle, 40 tablets, plain wrapper, full directions, return mail.

Fireworks Near in Money? Bulls, Bears Both Bolder.

By B. C. FORBES

A PREDICTION: The money market in Wall Street will experience fire works between now and the first week in January.

IT STILL remains to be seen whether the bulls or the bears enjoy the happier New Year. Each is more confident of his position as stocks continue to soar. Bankers, almost without exception, are on the side of caution. Most of them have seen booms collapse before now. This is the first stock market experience of many who have been making paper profits with an ease which bewilders them.

A READER sends this, from a Boston newspaper: "Smiles at luncheon time mean so much to business men that, when Miss Anna Coughlan announced that yesterday was her last day behind the counter at Thompson's Spa, a group of her steady customers handed her a purse of $1,000. Thompson's has a strict rule against tipping, but a present for a hundred smiles a day is allowed anywhere."

THIS from a New York newspaper this week: "The New York Central Railroad awarded a medal yesterday to James Gibson, a floatman on tug 18, flagship of its harbor fleet for rescuing a man from the Hudson River. The medal is the highest award the railroad gives to employes saving life at their own peril. A lapel button goes with it."

It would be better if that last sentence read: "A thousand dollars goes with it." Medals, buttons and the like are excellent as far as they go. But when they are given for exceptionally meritorious deeds, they don't go far enough. They should always be accompanied by something more substantial.

W. C. D'ARCY, well-known St. Louis business man, wires this extremely interesting piece of news: "Leonard Mathews will celebrate his hundredth birthday on December 17. He is well and mentally active. In 1871 he incorporated Edwards & Mathews, known today as 'Whittaker & Co., investment bankers.'"

New York nor Chicago nor Philadelphia nor Boston nor any southern or western city can boast of a centenarian banker. George F. Baker, who ranks as the dean of New York bankers, is 88. It is doubtful if many bankers taking an active part in financial affairs these hectic days will reach any such age. In the largest cities the pace has become rather killing. At this moment several leading New York bankers are laid aside by nervous breakdowns.

We hear a lot about our higher standard of living. Our standard may not have become much higher, but it assuredly has become faster.

BRADFORD MERRILL, who early won fame in the newspaper field and became general manager of the far-flung Hearst organization and who has just died, had the sharpest memory of any man I ever knew. It worked like lightning. Nothing could happen anywhere in the world which he could not throw light upon out of his vast storehouse of unforgotten information. His knowledge of finance, especially railway finance, was unbelievable. This enabled him to make a fortune through judicious investments.

A first-class memory is an asset possessed, I have often noticed, by many men who have reached the top. James J. Hill, who had perhaps the greatest memory of any man of his day, replied, when I asked how he did it, "It is easy enough to remember things you are interested in. Become interested in the right things."

RAILROADING in recent years has not attracted many sons of railway leaders. Carl R. Gray, Jr., is an exception. The son of the president of the Union Pacific has switched from banking to the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, under President Fred W. Sargent. Young Gray early intended to take up railroading, as shown by the fact that he graduated from the University of Illinois with an A. B. degree in railway administration. After some railway experience he turned to other activities, but is again back in the railway fold.

Railroading lost much of its attractiveness as a career when anti-railway sentiment became so bitter and when there was a ban against anything and everything in the way of consolidation. Since the government performed a somersault on consolidations, and especially since the Van Sweringens came to the front, railroading has taken on some of its old-time interest.

THIS is a good time to keep out of debt.

STOCK MARKET IRREGULAR, QUIETER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Speculation in stocks quieted down considerably in today's brief session of the market with the price movement irregular. The wide open break in Canadian Marconi on the New York Curb market yesterday, followed by a further sharp decline in that stock today, coupled with the big increase in brokers' loans and the 10-point drop in the New York Federal Reserve Bank ratio apparently had a sobering influence on speculative sentiment.

Increased margin requirements put into effect today by some of the large commission houses, and the increasing number of cautionary advices also tended to keep speculation in check. While yesterday's 10 per cent call money rate is believed to be temporary, bankers hold out little hope for easy money rates until after the turn of the year, due to the expanding holiday demand for funds.

Steel shares ran into some selling at the opening, despite trade reports that the seasonal decline in production had been checked, but fresh buying support was supplied and partial recoveries were made. The so-called independent motor stocks also turned heavy on selling inspired by the speculative belief that the keen competition resulting from the recent introduction of new models would tend to reduce profit. Graham-Paige dropped nearly 4 points and Hupp 3.

International Nickel, which soared 13½ points at the opening, lost nearly half of its gain. Sears Roebuck dipped nearly 4 points and such recent favorites as Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Childs and Standard Oil of New Jersey sold a point or so lower.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas common crossed 87 on a new high and there was a fairly well established demand for the other rails on expectations that November earnings statements would make an even more favorable comparison with last year's figures than the October statements.

Pools were moderately active in a select assortment of specialties including Radio, Wright Aero, Motor, Chain Store, Great Western Sugar, Coty, Liquid Carbonic and Skelly Oil.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 2,400,000 shares.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Local Market Narrow — Livestock—Produce

NARROW PRICE CHANGES IN QUIET MARKET HERE

There was no change in the general aspect of the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the short week-end session today. Volume of business was comparatively light and prices held close to last night's finals.

Blaw Knox developed a firming tendency at the start of business, but after a few trades had been made in the issue between 44½ and 45, it quieted down and did not appear again for some time. Carnegie Metals, which dropped back sharply early yesterday and recovered part of its loss in the later dealings, was pegged today around 22½ as compared with yesterday's low of 22. Not much of the stock changed hands, but offerings found the market firm at the 22½ level.

Miscellaneous industrial issues were quiet, with only fractional changes noted in the majority of this group. Suburban Electric held firm on announcement that the company had expanded its distributing territory into Ohio and West Virginia. The stock was issued a few months ago at 16 and is now above 27. Dividends are being paid at the rate of $1.50 annually. The company distributes the products of the Delco Light Company, among which are the Frigidaire.

SANITARY CO. SELLS 2 NEW PRODUCTS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company is placing two new products on the market. They represent an embarcation in previously untouched fields of activity, although the products are closely allied to the organization's regular lines of plumbing fixtures.

Production has been started on a combination electric dish washing machine and kitchen sink. The unit is compact and the sink is made in a variety of colors to conform to the modern styles in home building.

An electric clothes washing machine also is in preparation. This is designed for use with other Standard Sanitary laundry fixtures. It is unique in that a large share of enameled iron ware is used in place of other metals to improve the appearance of the machine.

THE advertising and intensive salework on the two machines will be started early in 1929, after preliminary efforts have been made to introduce the units to the plumbing trade.

Construction work is under way on the new factories of Germany. These plants will be in production within a year. The expansion in Europe will open new markets. The adoption of modern plumbing has been slower in European countries than it has been here. This leads to the belief that an enormous potential market will become available as the recovery of European business progresses and as standards of living are improved.

The German plant may also be used to supply demand in South America, where the requirements for plumbing fixtures are showing a rapid growth. Low labor costs in Germany will greatly increase Standard's ability to compete for these markets.

DOMESTIC sales in the latter half of this year have been large. The seasonal depression is now being felt as winter weather starts to cut into building activity.

Earnings for 1928 are expected to be about equal to, or slightly better than, in 1927, when $7,820,021 was reported. This was equivalent to $2.31 a share on the 3,234,486 shares of common stock now outstanding after deducting dividends on the $4,786,400 of 7 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock.

In the first half of this year $3,701,432, or $1.11 a share was reported. Standard's common stock was split on a three-for-one basis early this year, after which the new shares were listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The common stock pays dividends of $1.68 annually.

THE balance sheet offers a study in hidden assets. Physical properties at the end of 1927 were carried at $25,586,000. Liberal charges have been made for depreciation over a long period of years, but no adjustments have ever been made for increases in the value of real estate. A recent analysis of the company's position pointed to the fact that factories, show rooms and warehouses cover a total of 5,846,539 square feet. The value giving to these properties and their equipment is only $4.36 a square foot, which is remarkably low.

The Canadian subsidiary is carried as an investment of $1,000,000 on the parent company's balance sheet, while it has a book value of $1,331,498, and actually earned $308,610 in 1927. On the basis of profits it could be valued at several millions.

THE Suburban Electric Development Company has purchased the J. J. Munsell and Sons Company, of Columbus, . The latter organization acts as distributor for Frigidaire and Delco-Light products in 40 counties of Eastern Ohio and Western West Virginia, including Columbus, Zanesville and Wheeling.

Mrs. Frank Stearns Very Much Improved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, friend of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who is ill at the White House, was "very much improved" today, according to Col. James F. Coupal, the President's physician, who is charged with her care.

Mrs. Stearns has been indisposed since Monday, her illness making it impossible for her and her husband, both White House guests, to accompany the presidential party to Virginia for a Thanksgiving holiday.

Pittsburgher Held As Church Box Robber

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Joseph F. Saunders, 38, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was held for the grand jury in $8,000 bail yesterday, after he had pleaded guilty to robbing collection boxes in St. Agnes' Church, Arlington.

A burglar alarm attached to the boxes awakened the Rev. Ronald F. Simpson, an assistant curate, early yesterday morning, and he called the police. They arrived in time to see Saunders escaping through a rear window and captured him after a chase. Saunders had $17.42, which, the police charge, he took from the church boxes.

PARLEY OFFER DEFENDED BY BRITTEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee, whose proposal for a naval conference between the United States and Great Britian was regarded in some quarters as unorthodox, is standing by his guns.

He has expressed the belief that results will come from his suggestion and has fired a salvo at critics who intimated that he had exceeded his authority in communicating with the British Prime Minister. Britten in a cablegram to Premier Stanley Baldwin proposed that members of the House Naval Affairs Committee and a committee selected from Parliament meet in Canada to talk over navy problems.

The Illinois Representative was emphatic in his statement that he had set no precedent in communicating with the British Prime Minister direct, instead of going through the regular diplomatic channels.

"For the past 25 years nearly every country on earth," he said, "has recognized the right of its parliamentarians to meet and exchange views on matters relating to a better understanding among the nations, without presuming that they were infringing upon the prerogatives of the God-chosen diplomats."

"No one can rightfully say that I exceeded my authority when I suggested an interparliamentary conference for a specific purpose to Stanley Baldwin, a member of Parliament. The people of England and of the United States expect their governments to arrive at a friendly understanding and the quicker this is done, the better."

Representative Britten said that the tone of Premier Baldwin's reply might determine whether the proposed conference would be held before the Washington arms treaty expires in 1931.

REFORM PARLEY ON TOMORROW

The sixty-fifth conference of the National Reform Association will open tomorrow afternoon in the Second Presbyterian Church. The conference will last three days.

Speakers at the opening session, beginning at 3 o'clock, will include Charles G. Gordon, secretary of the department of agriculture of Pennsylvania; the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the association, and the Rev. Dr. William Parsons, on the staff of the National Reform Association.

Monday afternoon there will be two special meetings—one for women and one for men. The women's meeting will be addressed by Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, who will discuss "What the Mormons Are Doing Among Girls in Foreign Countries." Prof. J. H. Dickason, a member of the association's staff, will be one of the principal speakers at the men's meeting.

The conference will be continued with a general meeting Monday night, and will close with an annual business meeting Tuesday morning.

GRAFT LAID TO 'TOPERS'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Mayor Harry A. Mackey last night told the annual convention of the Philadelphia Sabbath Association that all the money spent in the grand jury investigation of bootlegging and police corruption would be wasted if the people did not stop buying liquor "and keep bootleggers from tempting the police force."

"A change in policemen," the Mayor declared, "will not affect anything if the appetite for drink is not lessened. If the citizen does not deny himself, then the expose has done nothing.

"The man who drinks makes the bootlegger, the bootlegger makes the hijackers, and out of these two cliques comes the gunman."

Mayor Mackey said the policemen, whose average salary is $5.50 a day, were underpaid and that because of this some of them had been "led into temptation by the big rolls of bills that were stuck under their noses."

VICE INQUIRIES HALT, PENDING NEW PLANS

There was a lull in the prosecution of wholesale vice today, the county probers enjoying their Thanksgiving recess and the Federal prosecutors temporarily halted by the setback received in court Wednesday when the first of the rum conspiracy trials "flopped."

The week-end, however, is being utilized by pooling plans continuing their campaign.

AWAIT FEDERAL ACTION

The first move of the Federal government to overcome the setback received when Judge R. M. Gibson directed a verdict of "not guilty" for the 46 defendants in the North Side rum trials was being awaited anxiously by the defendants and their attorneys. Both the United States Attorney John D. Meyer and Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington have announced that they intend to go ahead with prosecution of the rum conspiracies.

GARDNER CONFIDENT

No such sudden ending as occurred in Federal Court is expected in the grand jury probe, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said.

Gardner said yesterday he believed every indictment would stand in court. Those that were considered weak were discarded by the probing grand jury, Gardner said.

Summons have been issued for a number of witnesses to appear Monday. After they have been heard the presentment will be made to Judge James B. Drew.

RIVER PAGEANT AT DEDICATION

Monongahela wharf took on the appearance of a great port, as not less than 20 steamboats tied up in preparation for a river pageant today in connection with the dedication of the Thirty-first Street Bridge over the Allegheny River. The pageant around the Point and up the Allegheny was arranged by the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, assisted by engineers of the United States War Department, in charge of river development.

The completion of the new bridge removes the last obstruction to navigation on the Allegheny River in the Pittsburgh district. It represents this district's final compliance with the War Department orders of March 23, 1927, to raise six county bridges, namely, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, Sixteenth, Thirtieth and Forty-third street bridges.

DEDICATION PROGRAM

The dedication program included presentation of the bridge to the County Commissioners by Director of Public Works Norman E. Brown; presentation to the people by County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock, C. C. McGovern and former Commissioner James Houlahen; addresses by representatives of the War Department, Congress, State Legislature, Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, city of Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Alex. W. Dann, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, accepted the bridge in behalf of his organization. The raising of a floral anchor, indicating compliance with legal clearance of the river channel prescribed by the War Department, concluded the program.

Army of Boulder Dam Supporters Must Be on Guard Against Power Trust's Opposition Until Last Minute

JUST when his prospects for the early passage of the Boulder Dam bill by the Senate—it has already passed the House—appear to be brightest is the time for every supporter of this great national project to go on guard and stay on guard against its foes until the signature of the President makes the Swing Johnson bill the law of the land.

It is true that President Coolidge in his annual message to Congress next week will renew his recommendation in favor of the Boulder Dam project.

It is true that President-elect Hoover, before he started on his swing around the Latin American circle, urged upon his supporters North, East, South and West to give their support to this, the greatest constructive project of our generation.

It is true that Secretary Mellon has given the prestige of his expert and wholehearted indorsement to the financial features of the Boulder Dam plan, by the terms of which this vast undertaking will not ultimately cost the government a single dollar.

It is true that a board of the ablest engineers that President Coolidge could assemble has just reinforced the verdict of the engineers of the reclamation service by declaring the Boulder Dam project to be "entirely feasible" from an engineering standpoint.

It is true that this report of the Seibert board knocks into a cocked hat the only excuse for an argument that any disinterested opponent of Boulder Dam could possibly trump up against that project.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding the fact that all these things are true and that all the signs of the times are favorable for the early passage of the Boulder Dam bill, let us not forget that the gigantic power trust is still fighting this project. Let us not forget that this power trust whose ramifications carpet the country from coast to coast will keep up its fight against this project until the ink is dry on the signature of Calvin Coolidge to the Swing-Johnson bill.

Therefore now is the time and everywhere throughout the Union is the place for the national army of Boulder Dam's supporters to maintain a united and militant front against the machinations of the power trust which have for their sinister purpose the defeat of the greatest project the American people will have undertaken since they built the Panama Canal.

And just as the transcontinental railroads fought for years the building of any Isthmian canal between the two great oceans, so the gigantic power trust has fought for years and is still fighting the building of Boulder Dam.

But the people of the United States finally triumphed over their railroads and built the Panama Canal. And the people of the United States will surely triumph in the end over the power trust and build Boulder Dam.

Gardner Finds Politics Blamable for Graft

District Attorney Gardner says the police of Pittsburgh should be removed from political control. As a result of disclosures in the grand jury probe of vice, crime and graft he has come to the belief that the shame that has come to Pittsburgh is the result of making the "public safety" arm subordinate to political leaders.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph recognized that fact months ago. In an editorial article dated August 6 this newspaper urged "Let people unite to take police from politicians." It was printed as a comment on the periodical "shake-up" of police for political reasons masquerading as "for the good of the service."

In an editorial article October 1, the opening paragraph was as follows:

"If the present graft investigation brings to the people of Pittsburgh a realization of the necessity of divorcing politics and police, it will be a blessing indeed."

Now it is evident that one of the results of the graft probe by the grand jury, under District Attorney Gardner IS a realization of the necessity of taking control of the police from the politicians.

It is pertinent to comment that about October 12, in dismissing a case, Judge James B. Drew said "the police must be kept out of politics."

The foregoing summary is but a portion of the brief in the case of The People versus Politics, Police, Vice and Graft, a firm that has prospered in Pittsburgh for far too many years. The remainder is found in the presentment already sent to court by the grand jury and another to be presented soon. This, Mr. Gardner promised some time ago, will include the "higher ups."

In stressing the need for taking our police from the control of politicians, it should be remembered that it is not the intention to indict the entire police force. We know that police, on the average, are honest, dependable men. We know that because the average man is honest and dependable. The trouble is that the honest man, who is of no use to the political grafter, usually is kept on a beat where he will not interfere with the flow of easy money from the hands of protected vice and crime to those who betray the trust reposed in them by the public.

Because of enlightenment supplied by the graft inquiry, Mr. Gardner says he will make recommendations for disuniting police and politics. We commend Mr. Gardner for that stand, but the matter should not rest there. It has been proven that no city administration in Pittsburgh can be trusted to handle the police, as at present organized. The control must be outside the administration and more directly answerable to the public, which should have the power of removal of a commission, director, or whatever agency may be placed in charge, if it fail to keep the police a force for protection of the public—and FOR NOTHING ELSE!

Meyer, With Half-Victory, To Continue Rum Trials

John D. Meyer, federal district attorney, is going ahead with the prosecution of the rum graft cases, despite the failure of the court to uphold his contention of conspiracy to defeat the national prohibition law by police, political leaders and speakeasy proprietors of the North Side.

Mr. Meyer says he will scan the conspiracy law a little more before proceeding—but that he will go ahead. A very proper stand!

While the dismissal of the conspiracy case against two-score alleged members of the rum ring is disappointing, Mr. Meyer gained a moral victory. The court's comment in throwing out the conspiracy case was that while there was evidence of conspiracy between some members of the group it was not sufficient to tie them all together under one charge.

That is hardly a vindication for those of the accused whom Judge R. M. Gibson had in mind when he ended the case against all of them.

The public feels that Mr. Meyer obtained half a victory, at least.

A Kaiser Complex

Perhaps an Analysis Would Help.

Artistic Germany is distressed because Hohenzollern, recently Kaiser, insists on peddling magnificent art treasures at low prices, selling them abroad.

It is even alleged that the "Kaiser" "illegally exports works of art in order that the German Republic may not buy them."

Italy has a law that prevents exporting works of artistic value. Germany could protect herself if she chose. But, in spite of some unpleasant experiences, she seems still to suffer from her Kaiser—Hohenzollern—complex. Perhaps a psychoanalyst would help.

Tales That Are Told

One He Hadn't Heard

A YOUNG man had been trying his wit on his fellow passengers in the train, and they were getting tired of it. When an old man in the corner spoke up they listened with interest.

"Here, young man," said he. "Two persons were walking down the street. One was tall, the other short. The tall one was the short one's son, but the short one was not the tall one's father.

"That impossible," said the young fellow, after puzzling for a while.

"No, it's a fact," said the older man.

"What relation, then, was the short one to him?"

"His mother."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SUNDAY school kids are awful funny. The teachers don't always think so, but all the fellows that ever made up jokes always have.

Anyway, there was a girl teaching Sunday school and she used to take the kids awful serious. Once when she had to step outside the door to talk to somebody, she heard the kids making a terrible racket. When she came back she says, "I'm awful afraid, children, that I'll never get to see any of you in heaven."

The meanest boy in the class piped up mighty sympathetic and says, "Oh, Miss Cobb, you ain't done nothing so bad as that, have you?"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MARION wants to advise her husband in his business deals and hubby most strenuously objects.

"What does a woman know about business," he asks indignantly, "particularly a woman like my wife who's never worked a day in her life?"

"I don't need to have worked to be able to tell when a thing's safe or not," says Marion. "My intuition tells me."

"Huh! Whaddya mean 'intuition,'" snorts John Henry.

"Well, I can't exactly explain," replies Marion, "but all women have it. Everyone knows that. It's something in your mind that just tells you about things."

"Aw, baloney! That's a nut notion!" snaps John Henry with true husbandly rudeness.

Whereupon the vast majority of ladies will join Marion in telling John Henry that he's crazy. For if there's one thing that the female sex believe in above all others it's Feminine Intuition.

John Macy refers to this in his article, "Logic and the Ladies," in November Harpers.

"Of all superstitions about women and cherished by women, none is more inane than the belief that they have a sort of sixth sense, a short cut leap of mind by which they jump to conclusions unerringly without processes of thought which men are obliged to follow."

Mad as this comment will make Marion, it is the truth. Our feminine faith in our intuition is pure hooey, sisters. It has, to be sure, helped us to get by with quite a little murder. By means of it we have made our males believe that we had sources of information denied their less subtle mentalities. But the simple truth is that we have no mental do-funnies which the boys do not share.

Today we arrive at decisions exactly as we have always arrived at them—by putting two and two together to make four. Some minds put them together quicker than others. But the process is identical in quick minds or slow—in male or female. Whether you put them together fast or slowly, you must have two twos before you can make four.

From which it is apparent that it is plain hokum for Marion to pretend that she can direct situations concerning the nature of which she has accumulated neither knowledge nor experience. When she knows what she's talking about her talk will be worth listening to—but not before. Intuition ain't!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHAT are you doing for relatives who have not met with as much success as you have attained?

Are you allowing them to carry heavy burdens without the assistance you might give as well as not, without hampering yourself?

And worse yet, do you remain away from them?

Are you afraid they might ask you for money?

What is the reason that you avoid your less fortunate relatives?

If they are honest and honorable though poor, there is no reason why you should be ashamed of your own flesh and blood.

You are no better than the poorest relative you have.

And if you were disposed to be fair perhaps you would think of some way to help these people out of a hard place.

But you are afraid that if you show a disposition to help them they will depend on you too much, isn't that it?

Time enough to say "No" when they overstep your generosity.

Bible Passages

God's Covenant

(Genesis 9: 1-17)

AND God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.

And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea; into your hand are they delivered.

And I, behold, I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you;

And with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth with you; from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth.

And I will establish my covenant with you; neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood; neither shall there any more be a flood to destroy the earth.

And God said, This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations;

I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud;

And I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.

And God said unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant, which I have established between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Important business in New York used to be conducted by executives who wore clothes into the shininess of a slick dime, featured frayed cuffs, runover heels, and hated the telephone. Their old-fashioned ways symbolized honesty and integrity.

But it is a new and dressy age and important employes must attune themselves to its demands. In a large industrial concern with branches circling the world three sigh-salaried executives were recently given the gate with a year's pay. They had not progressed sartorially with their jobs.

Their salaries improved but their mode of living did not. They continued to wear cheap clothing, shoes and hats and to patronize the less expensive luncheon places. It is axiomatic that in New York more than any other city one must spend money to make money.

There are scores of successful men who are convinced creating a personal air of prosperity breeds prosperity. They say they have proved it. Whether that is true or not there is doubtless a mental stimulus to fine clothes and elegant food that has its effect.

New York conducts a large slice of weighty affairs across the luncheon table. In the atmosphere of a carefully appointed restaurant, men are likely to be far more impressive and convincing than in the slap-bang setting of a greasy spoon lunchroom.

Men in large cities are forced into quick impressions—to take snap judgment. Hence the value of correct attire. In smaller communities a man's standing and character are not so detectable. His good points most of his bad qualities are well known and fancy food and fine street clothes will not change them.

New York has been trained to respect to a marked degree what it knows as "a front." It may be a bended knee to four-flushing but so long as one's lot is cast here the successful have found it wisdom to obey the metropolitan mandate.

That the speakeasy business is going into a tailspin is indicated by the sign over a padlocked place just reopened. It mournfully proclaims, "This Is as Lively as Any Restaurant Can Be Without Real Liquor."

* * *

Noted artists declare the most perfectly shaped feminine head in America is that of Mrs. Julius Walsh, a New York lady from the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky.

In a theater the other night I sat next to a gentleman—curse his dyed mustache—who seemed to have the fixation he had fallen sole heir to the arm rest between us. After an exchange of pushes and shoves I felt a quick jabbing sting. Braver spirits may smile, but I've read all about those poisoned needle affairs. So murmuring a few mauve nothings and stiffling a "Caramba" I kept my arms in my lap for the rest of the evening.

BOOKS WERE CRAZY

By Herbert Kaufman

JOHN W. PATTERSON once returned from Europe to find that his brother had installed a new inventory system at the National Cash Register Company.

He spent an hour examining the elaborate records, then had the whole caboodle pitched in the furnace.

"Now I'm sure you're crazy," remarked his brother.

"I'm not, but those books were," retorted Patterson.

After another absence abroad, the company's advertising director showed him a batch of copy and justified the frequent use of the word "intrigue" with the statement that he had engaged a college instructor to censor the corporation's publicity.

Whereupon Patterson suggested that he employ a local butcher to review the professor's English and so make sure that the average cash register prospect would also understand the ads.

For years Patterson practically maintained a monopoly, not so much through basic patents as by prompt and accurate decision.

He was the canniest judge of men in his day. And perhaps the most liberal paymaster industry recalls.

Among the graduates from his sales force are dominant factors in manufacturing, banking and automobile production.

They learned from him that efficiency is nothing but common sense in a silk hat—merely homespun shrewdness under a dude name, taking short cuts across fields of action.

He long antedated Harvey Firestone in the belief that the head of a successful concern must not stick too near the home plate.

He spent at least half his time away from Dayton collecting new ideas and pouncing upon innovation as it pecked through the shell.

This gave his executives a chance to show goods and demonstrate fitness. He neither hogged authority nor profits—that's why his organization survives him.

Solitaire players, who find it so hard to get and keep competent assistants, please take notice.

Equus Extinctus

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE horse is not quite that—not altogether extinct, like the Cro-Magnon race of men who drew his picture on their cavern walls in the dim prehistoric age. But, as thousands of us knew him, not only in our youth but in our middle years and up to a time which seems but yesterday, the horse is extinct.

But what a history he has had! How he has helped human ambition! Where would the great conquerors and the great scourgers of mankind—the Cyruses, the Sesostrises, the Dariuses, the Alexanders, the Caesars, the Genghis Khans, the Tamerlanes, the Napoleons—have been without the horse?

"He saith among the trumpets, Ha, ha! and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shouting."

Where without the horse would have been the great parades, the imperial corteges, the Roman triumphs, the royal processions, the coronations and the funerals, the huntings, the hippodromes, the circuses, the races, the wagerings, and the maddening chances of the betting ring? Where would agriculture have been?

In his strength and in his weakness, in his glory and in his shame, man has from time immemorial had the horse for his companion, his servant, his friend, his slave—forever faithful, forever obedient, proud in the triumphs, humble in the reverses, of his master. No one who has ever ridden a favorite horse but will tell you that the animal knew and apparently loved his rider. That there was between them an intimacy of mutual understanding that surpassed the ordinary workings of human sympathy.

I was reading recently some European writer who spoke feelingly of the end that the automobile has brought to what he called "the martyrdom of the horse." It is true that the horse has been a martyr, suffering like all martyrs because of his faithfulness; turning the other cheek to the smiter, as if he heard, understood and obeyed the divine injunction addressed to his master, but too fine for human comprehension: "Resist not evil."

It is a thing to be regretted that the younger generations will never know the horse as we elders have known him. He has been an example to mankind. One is tempted to wish that horses had been known to the people of Palestine as companions in their everyday life, and not merely as the war beasts of the Roman oppressors for they would have furnished still more effective parables to teach the virtue of humbleness, faith and devotion of duty, which is indeed "daughter of the voice of God," but not so "stern" as Wordsworth pictured her.
